Phone Pranks Get Girls in Trouble

Vans, Cabs, Trucks Sent to Two Homes by Pair of Teen-Agers

Two teen-aged girls charged with stirring a virtual steady stream of unwanted delivery and taxi service on Brewster and Andrew streets went on the official carpet for a showdown yesterday afternoon.

Police received first notice that the prank was in progress from Mrs. Frank Koenig, 85 Andrew street, early yesterday afternoon.

There, it was said, the procession included a laundry truck, dry cleaner, moving van, other delivery trucks, and five different taxis, four of which arrived at the house at the same time.

A police report at 4:40 p. m. listed the other complaint from Mrs. W. A. Keating, 43 Brewster street, who said that someone had been giving several business establishments "false phone calls," and that several taxis and delivery trucks had been sent there.

Sent to Apologize

Capt. William T. Roedell followed through when police headquarters received information indicating who the pranksters might be, and when the two, a girl 13 years old and another 14, were brought to headquarters with their parents, the police report said, "both admitted they had made all calls."

The girls were admonished by Capt. Roedell in the presence of their parents, the report said, and each was ordered to go with her father on a tour of the places called, and were told that if there were any charges they were to be paid. Otherwise they were to apologize for causing inconveniences.

Moscow Slams Hoover

Moscow, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Moscow press gave prominent play today to a speech by former U. S. President Herbert Hoover criticizing the U. S. government's current foreign policy. Long excerpts from the speech were carried in a Tass dispatch which said it "abounded in hostile, slanderous accusations against communism." The article said Hoover warned American politicians "on the uselessness of attempts of the United States to establish its domination in Europe and Asia." This is another in a series of articles the Soviet Press has been publishing lately devoted to criticism of President Truman's foreign policy by leading Americans.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The position of the treasury Dec. 20: Net budget receipts $454,024,-892.65. Budget expenditures $159,-752,787.92. Cash balance $2,960,-000,449.77. Customs receipts for month $40,231,220.57. Net receipts fiscal year July 1 $1,[illegible] 251,476.37. Budget expenditures $[illegible] Budget receipts $[illegible] Total debt $256,[illegible] Increase over previous day $2,811,-[illegible].81. Gold assets $22,[illegible] 705.07.

Added County Costs, City Living Bonus Are Figured in Levy

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today announced his 1951 tentative budget which would fix the tax rate at $47.68, a raise of $4.60 over 1950.

The mayor announced Tuesday that department estimates plus debt service, made a total of $1,-417,960.23. Added to this later was $528,498.69 in state and county taxes which put the total first budget estimate at $1,946,458.92.

Cut of $476,248

The cut from the above total represented in the mayor's budget as currently estimated is $476,-248.98.

The increase in the budget over that of 1950 is $139,376.76, and of this, the mayor said $102,909.32 is due to the increased cose of county government as estimated for 1951 over 1950.

This county increase is brought about because of a change of the county fiscal year, which puts the year ahead on a virtual 14-months basis, and because of additional general costs.

Bonus Is Included

The other major part of the 1951 increase is $29,490.30 for the five per cent across-the-board bonus for city employes, leaving only $6,977.14 of the increase for other purposes.

The mayor will hold a public hearing on the budget Dec. 28 at 7 p. m. in the Common Council chamber, city hall.

Stalin Peace Prizes Seem to Have Gone Astray in Kremlin

No Announcement Made in Moscow Regarding 1950 Awards of $25,000

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

What happened to those Stalin peace prizes?

When Prime Minister Stalin turned 70, a year ago yesterday, and the big to-do was made about it in the Communist world, the Supreme Soviet announced it had established Stalin peace prizes of 100,000 rubles ($25,000 at the Russian evaluation) to be awarded annually to each of five or 10 persons, regardless of nationality, who had done most to advance peace.

The decree specified that the first awards would be made Dec. 21, 1950, Stalin's 71st birthday, by a committee including representatives of various nations.

Although advance speculation about the Stalin peace prizes went through Soviet censorship in Moscow, the birthday came and went, with no announcement. Subsequent dispatches did not speculate on the delay.

No 'Great Architect'

Also strangely, Moscow dispatches which came through the censorship yesterday, did not call Stalin the great defender, architect and so forth of peace. All the satellite tributes did, taking their cue from what had gone before, but in Moscow, at least so far as can be learned from what came through, the word peace was shunted aside this year.

This is all the more strange

Dewey Will Fight Any Loss of Aid

Governor Says Ewing Insists State Alter Its Method of Help to Children, Disabled

$1,700,000 Is Due

Lansdale Says Money Needed for Present Quarter

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—Governor Dewey lined up his forces today to fight a threat he said had been made by the federal government to withhold aid to the state for dependent children and disabled persons.

Dewey charged that Oscar Ewing, federal security administrator, was insisting that New York state change its standards and "jeopardize our service to needy people to aid him with his administrative problem."

Ewing declared in New York city that "I have neither withheld nor threatened to withhold federal welfare funds from New York state * * *."

The chief issue is whether the state will continue to distribute aid according to the standards of communities, or will establish a single standard.

The federal government reimburses the states, through a complex formula, for part of the cost of welfare aid in four categories; aid to disabled persons, aid to dependent children, old age assistance and aid to the blind.

$1,700,000 Is Due

Commissioner Robert T. Lansdale of the State Social Welfare Department said the aid immediately at stake was $1,700,000 due the state for about 25,000 disabled relief recipients, for the quarter ending Dec. 31.

The state risks the loss of millions of dollars in other aid, if it does not adopt the single standard, he added in a report submitted to the governor.

Dewey sent telegrams yesterday asking New York's U. S. senators, Republican Irving M. Ives and Democrat Herbert H. Lehman, to carry the fight to Congress if necessary.

The governor said Ewing's agency was trying to force New York to adopt a "statewide standard" and also had prescribed standards for state and local civil service employes who handle federal funds.

Says Plan Mechanical

The single relief standard "means that persons receiving the same type of assistance must mechanically receive the same benefits regardless of what they actually need," Dewey said.

According to the governor, Ewing's agency had "no express authority" from Congress to require the single standard.

Ewing, in his statement, said he

Emergency Bills Seem Stranded by Holiday Exodus

House Action Loses to Absentees on Move to Give More Power

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—Caught in a home-for-Christmas exodus, a major portion of President Truman's emergency mobilization legislation appeared stranded today until at least January 1.

The holiday jam of absenteeism caused House leaders to sidetrack action on bills to (1) give the President wider powers to speed the mobilization effort and (2) to authorize union shop agreements by railway labor.

And unless Senate-House conferees can reach agreements by nightfall final congressional action may be delayed on the $3,200,000,-000 excess profits tax and the $20,000,000,000 arms bill.

Both bills have been passed by House and Senate, but a compromise of differences remains to be approved by both chambers before they can go to the White House.

Agreements Worked Out

House leaders, handicapped by inability to get a working majority on the floor, worked out agreements to act on conference reports completed today. There was some hope the profits tax might go to Mr. Truman by tonight.

When the House adjourns this afternoon, it quits for legislative purposes until New Year's Day. Token sessions will be held next week, but no business completed.

That leaves only the two days from Jan. 1 until the new 82nd Congress takes over Jan. 3, for clearing up pending legislation.

The Senate appeared ready today to give swift approval to the bill setting up a Civil Defense Administration with potentially vast power over the lives of millions of Americans. The House already has passed such a bill.

Cheer Is Found

And Congress members found some Christmas cheer in Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson's prediction that munitions production will roll at a swift pace in 1951.

Wilson put it this way:

"My guess is that industry can supply 50 to 100 per cent more materiel in the next year than in the first big year after Pearl Harbor."

Wilson made the forecast late yesterday to a Senate-House "watchdog" committee on defense production. He did not specify just which World War II munitions figures he had in mind, nor did he estimate in any detail how much production he expects next year.

His forecast, however, was termed by Senator Capehart (R-Ind.) "the most cheering news I've heard in a long while." Similarly, Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) said it was "welcome cheer in what has been a pretty gloomy picture."

Other Developments

In other mobilization-connected developments:

1. The Wage Stabilization Board announced last night that it had reached a unanimous agreement on the question of wage controls over 1,000,000 auto workers. It did not say what the agreement was, however.

2. Alan Valentine, chief of the Economic Stabilization Administration, (ESA) said his orgahization is working on a program to stabilize meat prives.

Wilson, the mobilization chief, went before the "Watchdog" Committee a few hours after being sworn into office at a White House ceremony. He was accompanied to the capitol by Valentine and Michael V. Disalle, price administrator.

Must Be Stablized

Valentine told the lawmakers that he interprets the wage-price control law to mean that wages must be stablized whenever the government invokes price controls. He indicated, however, that he does not feel that the law requires action in the wage and pric fields at precisely the same time. Valentine last week ordered a roilback in prices on 1951 model automobiles. This freeze is scheduled to expire March 1, when a

Long Negotiations Loom Over Swap Of German Troops

Adenauer Announces Big Step Taken in Talk; Will Discuss End of Controls

Bonn, Germany, Dec. 22 (AP)—Two-thirds of Germany and her western foes readied today for lengthy negotiations over a swap of German troops for near-independence for the allied-occupied area.

Many months of talking between the West German government and the Big Three loomed before German troops could fight alongside their former enemies against Soviet communism, or West Germany would become almost a free nation.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced last night after a five-hour parley with the high commissioners of France, the United States and Britain, that "there has been a big step forward" in plans to include West German troops in the west's projected 1,-000,000-man defense force against Soviet aggression.

First Big Concession

A communique on the conference disclosed that the three western powers, offering their first big concession in return for German participation, have agreed to place their relations with West Germany "to an increasing degree on a contractual basis." This was taken to indicate a removal of virtually all occupation controls.

The offer was in line with plans for the formation of the international army in western Europe, made earlier this week by the 12 Atlantic Pact foreign ministers in Brussels.

For five and one-half years Germany has been an occupied land. After Christmas, negotiations begin to remove numerous occupation controls and replace them with a treaty between the Bonn regime and the Big Three.

This would be the nearest thing possible to a peace treaty. Writing of a final pact with the Germans depends on a prior agreement between the western allies and Russia.

Will Take Months

But it will be months before the German armed forces are organized and the federal republic becomes a near-independent nation. The first product of the Brussels conference, as far as Germany is concerned, will not be soldiers, but more committees.

First, German-allied committees must be set up to study the size of German units to be put in the international force and to establish measures to place relations between Bonn and the allies on the "contractual basis," neither side has made any definite commitments on the German military

Authority Announces Ferry Stops January 1

The Kingston-Rhinebeck ferry will continue operating until January 1, weather permitting, the New York State Bridge Authority announced today. The ferry is tied up for general reconditioning at about the same time each year. The authority will announce the end of the ferry's run, if it is forced by weather conditions to quit before that time.

Acheson Scheduled To Meet Senators To Report Pacts

Members of House Unit Are Invited to Attend; No Word on Troops

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson faced searching questions today on American troop commitments in Europe and whether other United Nations members will furnish Korea reinforcements.

Acheson goes before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee (2 p. m., EST) to report on agreements reached at the Brussels conference on Atlantic Pact defenses for western Europe. Members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee were invited to attend.

President Truman said after a White House conference with Acheson yesterday that within the next few weeks the soldiers of the pact nations will begin training together "for the defense of the free world."

The President added that the appointment of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as supreme commander "greatly heartened and inspired the European nations, who see in it new proof of the firm intentions of the free nations to stand together."

No Mention of Troops

The President didn't mention American troop commitments in his statement, but members of Congress made it plain that is the point of most interest to them in the new setup.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass.), who just finished a tour of duty as a United Nations delegate, told a reporter in advance of the meeting he intended to question Acheson closely about any agreements that may have been made at Brussels to send additional foot soldiers to Europe.

Lodge, a former Foreign Relations committeeman, said he also wants to know what, if any, arrangements have been made to replace some of the U. S. forces fighting in Korea with those of other members of the U.N.

The Massachusetts senator was said to believe that the time has come for a showdown in the U.N. on whether the United States is going to continue to supply more than 90 per cent of the fighting men in Korea.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said in an interview he wants to find out whether Acheson believes the western European nations have "the will to fight."

"From the information I gathered in Europe this summer, I have some doubts on that score," he said.

Many Guns Still Cover Beachhead

May Strike Dec. 25

Occidental Holidays Generally Used to Start Drives

Tokyo, Dec. 22 (AP)—Red China rejected today the United Nations' repeated appeals to negotiate for a cease-fire in Korea.

It could mean war to the bitter end unless other means for peace can be found.

The Peiping radio broadcast the statement of rejection by Premier Chou En-lai.

It spurned the proposal of a special U.N. Assembly committee as rising Red attacks in western Korea prompted a warning by General MacArthur that a big new Chinese military offensive may be on the way.

In northeast Korea, evacuation of nearly 25,000 frightened civilians from the Red-besieged beachhead port of Hungnam was reported by AP Correspondent Tom Lambert.

Close-range rocket ships, big naval guns and artillery still shielded the small beachhead—the United Nations' last foothold in Korea.

Call Appeal 'Unlawful'

China's rejection of any talk toward a cease-fire was made in a six-point statement broadcast in Peiping and heard here.

The Red premier-foreign minister said the three-man U.N. committee's appeal was "unlawful" because Chinese Communists did not participate in formation of the committee at the U. N. Assembly.

The committee had sent the Peiping regime three requests to negotiate for a cease-fire—the last one Thursday night, New York time.

The United Nations General Assembly at Lake Success set up the committee during a consideration of the Korean crisis.

A Red Chinese delegation's chief spokesman blasted the U.N. in a lengthy speech but it was not permitted to participate in the decisions because Red China is not a member. The Chinese left New York for home earlier this week.

The Red attacks in western Korea started shortly before Chou's rejection of cease-fire dickering. The attacks indicate an all-out offensive against U.N. forces could be expected almost any hour.

Observers were guessing that Christmas Eve might be the signal for the new Red drive because of the Oriental practice of striking on Occidental holidays.

12 Divisions Ready

General MacArthur's late Friday war summary said from 10 to 12 divisions have been identified along Parallel 38, arbitrary boundary between North and South Korea.

The initial Red assaults in regimental strength rolled nearly two miles against Republic of Korea (ROK) forces northeast of Chunchon. That's a highway junction 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

A large buildup of Reds—Chinese or North Korean or both—was reported north of Chunchon. West of this area along parallel 38, a sizeable Chinese force was spotted in Yonchon, 38 miles due north of Seoul and six miles north of the parallel.

Yonchon is on one of the two main rail lines leading to the

Thruway Authority Denies Loss of Village Would Result From Hudson River Span

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—The state Thruway Authority denies that the village of South Nyack will be virtually wiped out by construction of a Thruway bridge across the Hudson river there.

A maximum of 147 houses and other structures will be affected in Nyack and South Nyack, Authority Chairman Bertram D. Tallamy said yesterday in a statement replying to protests from residents of the area.

Tallamy said property damage would be "relatively small."

"There can be no doubt that within a few years the Thruway will cause a major increase in the realty valuations of this area," he added.

Residents have been up in arms at the report that about 250 homes and South Nyack's main buildings, with a total assessed valuation of $2,000,000 would be demolished to make room for the $30,000,000 Tappan Zee bridge and its approaches.

The Thruway Civic Association has vowed to carry its fight to court.

Tallamy said the authority was waiting only for a permit from the Department of the Army before going ahead with the 18,000-foot link in the 500-mile, cross-state Thruway under construction.

"The location of any particular portion of the Thruway must be determined in relation to the project as a whole," he said.

South Nyack officials have contended that condemnation proceedings necessary for the proposed project, would remove the village's only two grocery stores, its two taverns, the railroad station and the village hall, in addition to 250 homes.

At a protest meeting in South Nyack Dec. 15, one objector said "a bridge here would level the town like an atom bomb."

A Thruway spokesman said authority officials here did not know whether the 147 houses and other structures mentioned by Tallamy included all the buildings listed by village officials, but said the village hall would have to be moved.

No estimate of the assessed valuation of the 147 buildings was available here, the spokesman added.

Tallamy promised on Monday to offer more details on the proposed bridge "to clear up some of the misconceptions among the people of Nyack and South Nyack."

In releasing his statement, Tallamy also gave out two maps of the site. One showed the proposed Thruway course through Nyack and South Nyack. The second showed the route through Rockland county.

Tallamy said "local considerations cannot be accepted as governing in the choice of the Thruway route."

The authority chairman, who also is superintendent of the State Public Works Department, said selection of a route through Westchester county (across the river), the location of the Hudson river crossing and the alignment in Rockland county had been under study for approximately six months.

He said "it is not feasible for the engineers engaged in these studies to release preliminary phases of the study, any more than a book publisher releases his first proof before the editing and correcting processes are completed."

"One objective of the final engineering phase is to reduce the damage, and thus the cost, to a minimum," he added.

"The site was chosen after a careful survey of all possible locations for the crossing," Tallamy said.

Dean Says Russia Makes Intensive Atomic Effort

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—Congressional action on the multi-billion dollar defense program was spurred today by a grim warning that Russia is making "an intensive effort" in the field of atomic energy.

Expert testimony on the Russian atomic program came from Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission. Originally given behind closed-doors it was made public today by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Dean told of Russia's activity, and filled in some details of this nation's expanding atomic production, in testifying on the $20,000,-000,000 emergency defense money bill. This measure steamed through the Senate yesterday at a wartime clip. And it carried some $2,000,000,000 more than the House voted.

A Senate-House conference group meets at 10 a. m. EST today to iron out differences in the two bills. Speedy agreement was expected.

Other fast-moving developments in the nation's rearmament program:

1. Secretary of the Air Force Finletter told senators that the nation lacks "an absolute air defense" against possible atomic attacks. The best defense would be to attack the bases of the enemy, he said, adding quickly that he was not "recommending a preventive war."

2. Secretary of Defense Marshall said that this country must tool up at once for another world war, even though we hope it will not come.

3. Navy officials disclosed that this country plans to turn over half a dozen or more cruisers to some South American countries, probably Brazil and Chile, and possibly Argentina.

4. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the Marine Corps,

The President added that the appointment of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as supreme commander "greatly heartened and inspired the European nations, who see in it new proof of the firm intentions of the free nations to stand together."

No Mention of Troops

The President didn't mention American troop commitments in his statement, but members of Congress made it plain that is the point of most interest to them in the new setup.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass.), who just finished a tour of duty as a United Nations delegate, told a reporter in advance of the meeting he intended to question Acheson closely about any agreements that may have been made at Brussels to send additional foot soldiers to Europe.

Lodge, a former Foreign Relations committeeman, said he also wants to know what, if any, arrangements have been made to replace some of the U. S. forces fighting in Korea with those of other members of the U.N.

The Massachusetts senator was said to believe that the time has come for a showdown in the U.N. on whether the United States is going to continue to supply more than 90 per cent of the fighting men in Korea.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said in an interview he wants to find out whether Acheson believes the western European nations have "the will to fight."

"From the information I gathered in Europe this summer, I have some doubts on that score," he said.

Many Guns Still Cover Beachhead

May Strike Dec. 25

Occidental Holidays Generally Used to Start Drives

Tokyo, Dec. 22 (AP)—Red China rejected today the United Nations' repeated appeals to negotiate for a cease-fire in Korea.

It could mean war to the bitter end unless other means for peace can be found.

The Peiping radio broadcast the statement of rejection by Premier Chou En-lai.

It spurned the proposal of a special U.N. Assembly committee as rising Red attacks in western Korea prompted a warning by General MacArthur that a big new Chinese military offensive may be on the way.

In northeast Korea, evacuation of nearly 25,000 frightened civilians from the Red-besieged beachhead port of Hungnam was reported by AP Correspondent Tom Lambert.

Close-range rocket ships, big naval guns and artillery still shielded the small beachhead—the United Nations' last foothold in Korea.

Call Appeal 'Unlawful'

China's rejection of any talk toward a cease-fire was made in a six-point statement broadcast in Peiping and heard here.

The Red premier-foreign minister said the three-man U.N. committee's appeal was "unlawful" because Chinese Communists did not participate in formation of the committee at the U. N. Assembly.

The committee had sent the Peiping regime three requests to negotiate for a cease-fire—the last one Thursday night, New York time.

The United Nations General Assembly at Lake Success set up the committee during a consideration of the Korean crisis.

A Red Chinese delegation's chief spokesman blasted the U.N. in a lengthy speech but it was not permitted to participate in the decisions because Red China is not a member. The Chinese left New York for home earlier this week.

The Red attacks in western Korea started shortly before Chou's rejection of cease-fire dickering. The attacks indicate an all-out offensive against U.N. forces could be expected almost any hour.

Observers were guessing that Christmas Eve might be the signal for the new Red drive because of the Oriental practice of striking on Occidental holidays.

12 Divisions Ready

General MacArthur's late Friday war summary said from 10 to 12 divisions have been identified along Parallel 38, arbitrary boundary between North and South Korea.

The initial Red assaults in regimental strength rolled nearly two miles against Republic of Korea (ROK) forces northeast of Chunchon. That's a highway junction 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

A large buildup of Reds—Chinese or North Korean or both—was reported north of Chunchon. West of this area along parallel 38, a sizeable Chinese force was spotted in Yonchon, 38 miles due north of Seoul and six miles north of the parallel.

Phone Pranks Get Girls in Trouble

Vans, Cabs, Trucks Sent to Two Homes by Pair of Teen-Agers

Two teen-aged girls charged with stirring a virtual steady stream of unwanted delivery and taxi service on Brewster and Andrew streets went on the official carpet for a showdown yesterday afternoon.

Police received first notice that the prank was in progress from Mrs. Frank Koenig, 85 Andrew street, early yesterday afternoon.

There, it was said, the procession included a laundry truck, dry cleaner, moving van, other delivery trucks, and five different taxis, four of which arrived at the house at the same time.

A police report at 4:40 p. m. listed the other complaint from Mrs. W. A. Keating, 43 Brewster street, who said that someone had been giving several business establishments "false phone calls," and that several taxis and delivery trucks had been sent there.

Sent to Apologize

Capt. William T. Roedell followed through when police headquarters received information indicating who the pranksters might be, and when the two, a girl 13 years old and another 14, were brought to headquarters with their parents, the police report said, "both admitted they had made all calls."

The girls were admonished by Capt. Roedell in the presence of their parents, the report said, and each was ordered to go with her father on a tour of the places called, and were told that if there were any charges they were to be paid. Otherwise they were to apologize for causing inconveniences.

Moscow Slams Hoover

Moscow, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Moscow press gave prominent play today to a speech by former U. S. President Herbert Hoover criticizing the U. S. government's current foreign policy. Long excerpts from the speech were carried in a Tass dispatch which said it "abounded in hostile, slanderous accusations against communism." The article said Hoover warned American politicians "on the uselessness of attempts of the United States to establish its domination in Europe and Asia." This is another in a series of articles the Soviet Press has been publishing lately devoted to criticism of President Truman's foreign policy by leading Americans.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The position of the treasury Dec. 20: Net budget receipts $454,024,862.05. Budget expenditures $158,752,767.92. Cash balance $3,980,600,449.77. Customs receipts for month $40,231,229.87. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $17,277,381,475.37 Budget expenditures fiscal year $47,928,078,211.10. Budget deficit $30,650,745,735.73. Total debt $256,713,123,260.15. Increase over previous day $12,811,086.51. Gold assets $22,755,588,703.07.

Added County Costs, City Living Bonus Are Figured in Levy

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today announced his 1951 tentative budget which would fix the tax rate at $47.68, a raise of $4.60 over 1950.

The mayor announced Tuesday that department estimates plus debt service, made a total of $1,417,960.23. Added to this later was $528,498.69 in state and county taxes which put the total first budget estimate at $1,946,458.92.

Cut of $476,248

The cut from the above total represented in the mayor's budget as currently estimated is $476,248.98.

The increase in the budget over that of 1950 is $139,376.76, and of this, the mayor said $102,909.32 is due to the increased cose of county government as estimated for 1951 over 1950.

This county increase is brought about because of a change of the county fiscal year, which puts the year ahead on a virtual 14-months basis, and because of additional general costs.

Bonus Is Included

The other major part of the 1951 increase is $29,490.30 for the five per cent across-the-board bonus for city employes, leaving only $6,977.14 of the increase for other purposes.

The mayor will hold a public hearing on the budget Dec. 28 at 7 p. m. in the Common Council chamber, city hall.

Stalin Peace Prizes Seem to Have Gone Astray in Kremlin

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

What happened to those Stalin peace prizes?

When Prime Minister Stalin turned 70, a year ago yesterday, and the big to-do was made about it in the Communist world, the Supreme Soviet announced it had established Stalin peace prizes of 100,000 rubles ($25,000 at the Russian evaluation) to be awarded annually to each of five or 10 persons, regardless of nationality, who had done most to advance peace.

The decree specified that the first awards would be made Dec. 21, 1950, Stalin's 71st birthday, by a committee including representatives of various nations.

Although advance speculation about the Stalin peace prizes went through Soviet censorship in Moscow, the birthday came and went, with no announcement. Subsequent dispatches did not speculate on the delay.

No 'Great Architect'

Also strangely, Moscow dispatches which came through the censorship yesterday, did not call Stalin the great defender, architect and so forth of peace. All the satellite tributes did, taking their cue from what had gone before, but in Moscow, at least so far as can be learned from what came through, the word peace was shunted aside this year.

This is all the more strange

Thruway Authority Denies Loss of Village Would Result From Hudson River Span

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—The state Thruway Authority denies that the village of South Nyack will be virtually wiped out by construction of a Thruway bridge across the Hudson river there.

A maximum of 147 houses and other structures will be affected in Nyack and South Nyack, Authority Chairman Bertram D. Tallamy said yesterday in a statement replying to protests from residents of the area.

Tallamy said property damage would be "relatively small."

"There can be no doubt that within a few years the Thruway will cause a major increase in the realty valuations of this area," he added.

Residents have been up in arms at the report that about 250 homes and South Nyack's main buildings, with a total assessed valuation of $2,000,000 would be demolished to make room for the $50,000,000 Tappan Zee bridge and its approaches.

The Tappan Zee Civic Association has voted to carry its protest to court.

Tallamy said the authority was waiting only for a permit from the Department of the Army before going ahead with the 15,000-foot link in the 500-mile, cross-state Thruway under construction.

"The location of any particular portion of the Thruway must be determined in relation to the project as a whole," he said.

South Nyack officials have contended that condemnation proceedings necessary for the proposed project, would remove the village's only two grocery stores, its two taverns, the railroad station and the village hall, in addition to 250 homes.

At a protest meeting in South Nyack Dec. 15, one objector said "a bridge here would level the town like an atom bomb."

A Thruway spokesman said authority officials here did not know whether the 147 houses and other structures mentioned by Tallamy included all the buildings listed by village officials, but said the village hall would have to be moved.

No estimate of the assessed valuation of the 147 buildings was available here, the spokesman added.

Tallamy promised on Monday to offer more details on the proposed bridge "to clear up some of the misconceptions among the people of Nyack and South Nyack."

In releasing his statement, Tallamy also gave out two maps of the site. One showed the proposed Thruway course through Nyack and South Nyack. The second showed the route through Rockland county.

Tallamy said "local considerations cannot be accepted as governing in the choice of the Thruway route."

The authority chairman, who also is superintendent of the State Public Works Department, said selection of a route through Westchester county (across the river), the location of the Hudson river crossing and the alignment in Rockland county had been under study for approximately six months.

He said "it is not feasible for the engineers engaged in these studies to release preliminary phases of the study, any more than a book publisher releases his first proof before the editing and correcting processes are completed."

"One objective of the final engineering phase is to reduce the damage, and thus the cost, to a minimum," he added.

"The site was chosen after a careful survey of all possible locations for the crossing," Tallamy said.

Dean Says Russia Makes Intensive Atomic Effort

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—Congressional action on the multi-billion dollar defense program was spurred today by a grim warning that Russia is making "an intensive effort" in the field of atomic energy.

Expert testimony on the Russian atomic program came from Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission. Originally given behind closed-doors it was made public today by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Dean told of Russia's activity, and filled in some details of this nation's expanding atomic production, in testifying on the $20,000,000,000 emergency defense money bill. This measure steamed through the Senate yesterday at a wartime clip. And it carried some $2,000,000,000 more than the House voted.

A Senate-House conference group meets at 10 a. m. EST today to iron out differences in the two bills. Speedy agreement was expected.

Other fast-moving developments in the nation's rearmament program:

1. Secretary of the Air Force Finletter told senators that the nation lacks "an absolute air defense" against possible atomic attacks. The best defense would be to attack the bases of the enemy, he said, adding quickly that he was not "recommending a preventive war."

2. Secretary of Defense Marshall said that this country must tool up at once for another world war, even though we hope it will not come.

3. Navy officials disclosed that this country plans to turn over half a dozen or more cruisers to some South American countries, probably Brazil and Chile, and possibly Argentina.

4. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the Marine Corps,

Crime at Minimum

London, (AP)—St. Helena, Napoleon's place of exile, has just about reduced crime to the absolute minimum. A report from the South Atlantic Island said the average daily prison population in 1949 was one as compared with two the previous year. The island has a population of 4,664. Its main agricultural industry is the production of phormium hemp. A shortage of jobs exists, the report said. Cases in the small debts court rose from five in 1948 to 137 last year.

Especially wary when awake, the weasel is a sound sleeper. It can often be taken up by the head, feet or tail and swung around for a considerable time before it awakens.

Crime at Minimum

London, (AP)—St. Helena, Napoleon's place of exile, has just about reduced crime to the absolute minimum. A report from the South Atlantic Island said the average daily prison population in 1949 was one as compared with two the previous year. The island has a population of 4,664. Its main agricultural industry is the production of phormium hemp. A shortage of jobs exists, the report said. Cases in the small debts court rose from five in 1948 to 137 last year.

Especially wary when awake, the weasel is a sound sleeper. It can often be taken up by the head, feet or tail and swung around for a considerable time before it awakens.

BABSON on BUSINESS

New York City, Dec. 22—During the past few days, I have talked here with leaders of the nation's largest banking, insurance and industrial groups.

To my great surprise, they are fairly a unit in believing that the United Nations should at once get out of Korea. Some think we should try to make a deal to remain south of the 38th Parallel; but to do this would mean to let the Red China government into the United Nations and to give up Formosa. The ablest men think this is too high a price and prefer to withdraw altogether but defend Formosa and all our Pacific bases. This would largely be a task for the Navy.

Military men are opposed to landing any troops in China and, if possible, avoid using the atom bomb on Chinese territory; but if necessary, we could blockade her ports and perhaps bomb them. As to whether we should mix up with Indo-China, Burma, or India is very debatable. I am surprised at the number who are willing to arm the Japanese and let them decide this question — promising they can keep any territory they seize. I am also sorry to find so many of my New York friends becoming discouraged with the English and European situation and turning to the Isolationalist and Nationalist views.

Business Outlook

They all are agreed that 1951 will see the nation's greatest national income, with full employment and large retail sales. As to profits, they will vary much with different industries. Investors should be very choosy in 1951—selling some stocks and buying others. Inflation will surely continue to help the stock market, especially stocks of companies with their assets underground and chain store stocks with a constantly rapid turnover. Stocks of public utilities in big vulnerable cities and the bonds of such cities should be avoided. The only bonds advised are "Convertibles."

Although New York now looks for a good investment market in 1951, the wise ones do not over look the smash which will come with a revolution in Russia or anything else which will end the cold war or the hot war whichever we may be in at that time. (By the way, a general feeling is that upon declaration of World War 3, the stock market would have a sharp drop for a few weeks and then begin to climb to relatively high averages.)

Reasons For Business Cycles

During my active business life, I have been through four complete cycles with their booms and panics,—also three wars and "old deals" versus "new deals." I was taught, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, of which I am a graduate, by one of the best professors of Economics in America, Dr. Davis R. Dewey. Since then I have been in constant contact with the best economic minds. The following are my mature reasons for these Economic Cycles. Let us start with normal conditions.

Business then has an upturn accompanied by full employment, increasing profits and finally a boom. This encourages carelessness among employers, wageworkers and investors. This results in inefficiency, speculation and even dishonesty. Finally, the moral fiber of the people gets so bad that the prosperity era collapses as in 1929. Then follow unemployment and financial losses as from 1930-1933. These have to continue for a long encugh period to awaken the people to substitute efficiency for inefficiency, thrift for speculation, honesty for dishonesty. Finally, after enough persons repent business starts up again and once more we enjoy prosperity. Then history again repeats itself and the country passes through another cycle as began in 1937.

Stock Margins vs. Labor Bosses

Of course, there are other reasons for business depressions, the chief of which are debts and taxes. For this reason, I beg readers to clean up their debts at this time—whether employers, consumers or investors. When the next depression comes, the stock market, due to the very small margin business, will not go so low as after preceding panics. But, now, instead of borrowing on stocks, the public is borrowing on autos, television sets, mechanical refrigerators and fur coats as never before. These installment loans accompanied by increasing taxes are very dangerous.

In addition, today we have two new factors,—viz., conflicts abroad between the United States and Russia; conflicts here at home between selfish labor bosses who could easily bring on a business collapse. In fact, were it not for the stimulus of defense orders, we now would be suffering from unemployment, declining profits and low stock prices. But, of course, this means that business now is like a man depending upon whiskey to keep him going when he really should get on his knees and repent of his sins.

THE INFLATION LINE

Will scattered orders affecting individual articles and a call for general voluntary restraints hold the line against war-period inflation? The instant answer on the basis of past experience is that they will not. The apparent Washington supposition that they will do so already has drawn a barrage of attack from critics and the method is subject to continuing attack from almost every angle. It is attacked for its weakness, for its unfairness and for its uncertainty.

In part this method is adopted because the officials do not know what else to do. The power for total controls on the economy exists, but the machinery for fixing ceilings and allocations and such is lacking, and it will take a long time to set it up. The administration is moving on the theory that there is no point in proclaiming controls until they can be enforced. This idea has a ring of logic, but it makes too little use of American spirit and the force of public opinion.

The people don't have to be told that the nation is in peril; the peril can be seen every day on the front page of the newspapers, can be heard in every radio news report, can be sensed in every discussion of public affairs. The people know that hard work and hard restrictions may be necessary; we are ready for them. We can help to meet the situation by complying readily and conscientiously with the restrictions ordered by the government, and by not grumbling about them. This, more than talking, may help to show the national leaders that the people are ready to take our domestic problems in stride, and encourage them to act more resolutely.

WORLD'S LOVELIEST CITY

In 1951 Paris will celebrate its two thousandth birthday. This will seem ancient indeed to American communities who regard themselves as old when they have completed a century. A city a hundred years old would seem to Parisians not to belong in any list of old cities.

The first identifiable inhabitants of Paris were the Celts who occupied the country at the time of Caesar's conquests. They noticed that the Seine was easily fordable at this point, where the trade route ran from the Rhine to the Mediterranean. A great argument for building a settlement was the island in the middle of the river, known as the Cite. This was the first site of Paris. The extensions along the banks were later developments.

For beauty and the richness of its historical and artistic possessions, Paris yields to no city on earth. Hitler, in the dying convulsions of Nazism, gave orders to destroy it by bombing and the use of all available artillery. He knew that no deed of his would so shock the world, and since he could not be remembered for greatness of achievement he was willing to achieve fame through the greatness of his crime. Fortunately the German commanders ignored his order, and Paris was spared to inspire the rest of the world with its beauty. May it continue supremely lovely for another two thousand years.

ON HUMAN VIRTUES

Whatever were the reasons for the choice of William Faulkner, American novelist, to receive the 1950 Nobel prize for literature, we can't presume that it was in recognition of the keenness of his appraisal of human character today. Pausing in New York on the way to Stockholm to receive the prize, Faulkner commented on the nature of man.

Said the only question in the individual's mind today is, "When will I be blown up?" He said further that questions of such things as honor, courage and virtue don't exist in this worried world.

These statements may occasion little surprise to readers of Faulkner's novels. But — did he get such a cynical, contemptuous picture of humanity? Surely he didn't get it from his neighbors in Oxford, Mississippi. We don't think his observation is appropriate to any part of America. We doubt that it could be applied accurately to any sizable piece of the world. He must be talking about people in books.

Big problems are only the combined product of little factors. For proof ask any school teacher.

RADIO AND MUSIC

The National Broadcasting Company's brightest star used to be Arturo Toscanini, universally acknowledged as the world's greatest symphonic conductor. Toscanini is not conducting this year. The excuse is that he is not well. The truth is that his program has been shifted to 10 o'clock on Monday nights; that inappropriate facilities have been provided for his orchestra, and that he refuses to play.

At 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoons, for as many years as can be remembered, the New York Philharmonic was carried by the Columbia Broadcasting System. It was carried "live." Now it is a recorded program, carried at 1 p. m., two hours before the actual concert. A recorded symphony is not a live program. If Columbia can carry the program recorded at 1 p. m., it can carry it live at 3 p. m.

The American Broadcasting Company still carries the Metropolitan Opera, which is sponsored by the Texas Company. All hail, Texas Oil!

Sundays used to be devoted to fine programs on radio. This year music of quality has been disappearing, except on those stations which make a specialty of recorded music.

Radio is a peculiar business. Its revenue comes not from those who listen but from advertisers, euphemistically called sponsors. As the networks and stations do not own the vehicle of transmission, the air waves, they are dependent upon the actual owner, the government of the United States, for their licenses. These may be renewed or withdrawn without any regard to the investment of private enterprisers in the business.

To satisfy the owner of the air waves, whose agent is the Federal Communications Commission, the networks and the local stations are required to provide a ratio of programs which are in the public interest. No provision is made as to when such programs are to appear. It is in this category that religious, educational and many musical programs appear.

The radio networks divide their programs into three categories: 1. Sponsored; 2. Co-operative; 3. Sustaining.

The sponsored programs earn the money. They are controlled by advertising agencies. They are given the best time, no matter what the merit of the program may be. Sometimes they are without merit but are vehicles to attract attention to the "commercial."

An American newspaper's best space is the first page. That is never for sale to advertisers. Nor is the editorial page. In radio, it is different. The best time goes to the highest bidder.

The co-operative programs involve a different process. The network offers the program on the assumption that it may be of value, but is currently, for one reason or another, not acceptable to the advertising agencies. Often these programs are in excellent taste. The local stations carry them free of charge, or if they can get a local advertiser, they split the fee three ways, among the local station, the network and the talent.

These programs are miserably handled by many local stations, which push them all over the schedule. A program will be running for a year and building a following. Then a local optician or a loan shark wants the time (which is usually at a low price) and the station sells it to him, possibly with recorded hill-billy songs, thus avoiding both network and talent charges. To continue the fiction of public service, the co-operative program may be shunted to after midnight, the station expecting no listeners but maintaining a record to show to the F.C.C. when called upon.

The sustaining programs are usually those for which neither networks nor stations will accept revenue, such as religious programs, speeches by distinguished citizens and so on.

Television has completely upset the radio business because it costs too much and the companies are in the investment stage. This adds to the confusion because radio has to pay to keep television going. The networks, on account of their television losses, are uncomfortable.

Television may not survive if this war lasts long, because it may be necessary to reduce its scope in order to build a radar fence around our country. I do not pretend to understand the techniques involved in all this, but this is true: That while the Russians built a radar fence about their country, we built a television system.

The system of programming in radio is dominated by advertising agencies, which lack perspective on public service, as they probably have to if they are to earn their way.

DAMAGED HEART

Many think that once the heart is damaged by coronary thrombosis (heart stroke) or by an attack of rheumatic fever, the patient will inevitably have another heart stroke, and that he may drop dead at any time. What they forget is that the heart is very strong and even the damaged heart will often withstand the ordinary work required of it for a full lifetime.

We can compare a damaged heart to a bridge that has withstood heavy loads for many years. It was perhaps a 10-ton bridge when it was built but after many years of use, bridge inspectors, instead of pulling it down, change the sign from a 10 tons to five tons, which means that it will withstand the weight of five tons for many years to come.

Some years ago I quoted Dr. Paul D. White, Harvard University, as follows, in Clinical Medicine: "A patient with a damaged heart may live long and happily. We must learn to recognize the difference between immediate and later danger in these cases. The heart is a tough organ which will stand abuse and recover even after serious damage."

The danger to a damaged heart can be increased by fear, even more than by heavy exertion or work. From the straight physical standpoint, a patient may withstand several attacks of coronary thrombosis, if he remains 4 to 6 weeks in bed after each attack.

Further information regarding the heart as stated by Dr. White should be comforting to heart patients. Patients with other forms of heart disease, such as tachycardia (very rapid beating of the heart) and rheumatic heart disease can avoid serious damage by remaining in bed for several weeks after an attack has passed.

Heart disease is always a serious matter, but the heart can stand a great amount of damage without death occurring. One of the greatest dangers in cases of damaged hearts is the damage done to the whole body, including the heart, by fear.

The heart may be damaged but can still carry half its former load. Heart disease, though so serious, may still allow the heart to carry on its work for many years if the patient will remember to live an easier life and follow his doctor's orders as to eating, sleeping, and exercise.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington, Dec. 14, '50

Dear Daughter,

Well, you have made your father a grandpa again!

It begins to make me feel a little old. Of course, we are only as old as we feel, but today I confess to feeling quite a little older and a bit discouraged—discouraged over the state of the world. It is not a very promising world for my new grandson to face. We who preceded him and who were supposed to have built a better world have failed.

The only encouraging thing is that there will be 20 years or so before he has to face the tangled skein of world disunity, and perhaps by that time we can untangle some of our tragic mistakes.

One of the mistakes we are making today is intolerance, disunity and a quickness to judge that plays squarely into Moscow's hands. It is a new sixth column. We go from one extreme to another in this country, like an animated shuttlecock. It reminds me of the way we painted yellow stripes on the house of Lindbergh's father and threw people into jail as Socialists right after World War I.

Soviet Spy Ring Exposed

It also reminds me of the deluge of mail I got in February 1946 when I exposed the Soviet spy ring in Canada.

Scores of people wrote me that time denouncing me as a warmonger, as a disrupter of American-Russian relations, and a threat to world peace. I am sure these people were sincere, well-meaning, and thought that they were right and I was wrong. Frankly I heaved a sigh of relief when the Canadian prime minister, Mackenzie King, issued an official statement confirming the spy ring. That was the only thing that stopped the deluge of letters calling me a liar.

I don't know whether my office has kept those letters but if so, I ought to send them up to Senator McCarthy to show what others have done—long before his unbalanced tirades—to try to keep this country informed on Soviet dangers. I fear McCarthy, however, is influenced by only one motive—his passion for headlines and more lecture fees.

At any rate, what I am getting at is that this country swings from extreme to extreme. Some of the people who berated me four years ago for exposing Russia may be among those who now are just as vehement on the other side. These are tired, disillusioned, disappointed, and you can't particularly blame them. However, the important thing is that we must not be swayed back and forth from extreme to extreme. We must keep the middle road.

It is not enough these days to be anti-Communist. We must be pro-American. The first democratic rights any dictator must strangle are the right of a free press and free speech. The sixth columnists and the McCarthyites have already started this by branding those who disagree with them as Communists.

B-29 Spy Ring

I remember in September 1947 having written an expose of the Communist spy ring in a Washington suburb which stole the secret blueprints of B-29s. The story seemed so sensational that some editors at that time would not publish it. And it was not until a year later, when the House Un-American Activities Committee finally got around to the story, that some of these same editors gave the story headlines.

At the time I wrote the first story of the Canadian spy ring, I also called on the chief assistant of Jimmie Byrnes, then secretary of state, and suggested that he ought to make an investigation of Alger Hiss. It looked to me as if Hiss had been leaking information to the Russians—though I couldn't tell for sure. Byrnes did investigate and Hiss left the State Department.

It was impossible for me to tell whether he was a Communist—an extremely serious charge for a newspaperman to make, even though it is brandished about so irresponsibly on the floor of the Senate. But I was sure that Hiss should not be in a high government position, and my conviction has been justified.

All this was in February 1946, four years before McCarthy suddenly discovered an easy way to make headlines.

Italian Communist Plot

In the summer of 1945, just after Fred Vinson, now chief justice, became secretary of the treasury, I went to him to suggest that he investigate one of his top assistants whom I suspected of being pro-Communist. Vinson did investigate and as a result let the man out.

The man is dead now and there is no use mentioning his name. In fact, I have never mentioned the incident before, not even to Mrs. P. But I did want my daughter to know in these days when the label "Communist" is dished out so recklessly on the floor of the Senate that her father has been doing his part for many years to get rid of communism in vital places.

There was another interesting occasion in September 1947 when I published a confidential report of Communist plans to seize control of Italy. Included in the expose were the location of secret Communist ammunition dumps and the names of Communist leaders, among them Giuseppe Dozza, mayor of Bologna.

Four months later, when I got to Bologna on the Friendship Train Mayor Dozza waved the clipping to American newsmen and denounced me and the Friendship Train. He was the only mayor in Italy who refused to welcome us.

I couldn't help but remember, when I was in Italy, that its dictator once marched on Rome with the excuse of "saving Italy from communism." However, force never cures force, and many of his Blackshirts are now the backbone of the Italian Communist party.

So the thing for us to remember in these difficult days is that democracy can be choked to death just as effectively by a Fascist dictator as by a Communist dictator.

In fact, there is no better way to play into the hands of Moscow than to create disunity, lack of confidence, and doubt. There is no time more advantageous for the Kremlin to strike than when we lack confidence in our leaders and when our country is torn by strife.

And the best way to do this is the Moscow-Hitler technique of repeating again and again the big lie and the big smear.

Again I apologize for writing such a discouraging letter on what should be such a joyous occasion—the advent of a new grandson. But I hope that long before he gets old enough to cope with the affairs of the world, his elders will have learned to have more sense.

Love from
THE OLD MAN

Hoover, Dewey Offer Forthright Plans Missing in Anything From Government

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 22—President Truman, in his recent statement, very properly invited Republicans who have "alternative policies" to come forth with them.

Former President Hoover and Governor Dewey, twice a nominee for the presidency on the Republican ticket, are presenting alternative policies. What they advocate has a positiveness and a forthrightness which is missing in governmental pronouncements. But it isn't easy for President Truman to make American policy nowadays—he has to be governed by what other members of the United Nations may say or do.

While there are parts of what both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Dewey said with which there will be disagreement expressed, the fact remains that these two men are reflecting a certain dissatisfaction in this country with the administration's foreign policy that cannot be cleared up by merely calling for unity and less partisanship.

Something deeper has been revealed in these cleavages. The American people are asking for leadership, and there can be a unified policy agreeable to all elements of the nation only when due consideration is given to criticism.

If ever there was a time to examine dispassionately and without emotion the points of criticism that are being made about the world situation, it is now. These criticisms boil down to this:

1. Member countries of the United Nations have let America down. They have not supplied the manpower needed in Korea since the crisis arose there last June.

2. The impression has spread throughout the world that the United States and not the United Nations is fighting in Korea. Who is responsible for that impression and what is going to be done about it by the U. S. and the U.N.? Senators Ferguson of Michigan, Republican, and Green of Rhode Island, Democrat, were quoted in Tokyo yesterday as saying that, wherever they have traveled in Asia, the idea is prevalent that this is just a U. S. conflict with Communist China. This is exactly the line that Moscow has sought to implant by propaganda.

3. The United States does not have the manpower to defend Europe if by this is meant that America must supply the bulk of the troops. The American people are behind the North Atlantic Pact and applaud the designation of General Eisenhower as supreme commander, but it was about time somebody told the European peoples that the American people are sick and tired of the dillydallying about the defense of Europe. Europeans must show, more than they have these last few years, a willingness to mobilize and to fight.

4. The American people are growing weary over the vacillation in the U.N. and the evident attempts at "appeasement" by governments that seem to be playing ball with the Communists or trying to do so while professing to be friendly to democracy and opposed to aggression.

5. Failure of the U.N. to pronounce Communist China an "aggressor" has caused profound disappointment throughout the United States.

It is plain from the foregoing outline that America's policy in world affairs needs clarification and strengthening and that members of the U.N. should learn somehow in positive terms from somebody that American patience is wearing out.

That's the true meaning of some of the points made in the Dewey and Hoover speeches. The detailed programs they offer may bring dissent for various reasons but in the main the speeches have notified the world and particularly Europe that America expects other nations to do their duty not only in a military way but in espousing the basic principles of morality which have been written into the United Nations charter itself.

ON HUMAN VIRTUES

Whatever were the reasons for the choice of William Faulkner, American novelist, to receive the 1950 Nobel prize for literature, we can't presume that it was in recognition of the keenness of his appraisal of human character today. Pausing in New York on the way to Stockholm to receive the prize, Faulkner commented on the nature of man. He said the only question in the individual's mind today is, "When will I be blown up?" He said further that questions of such things as honor, courage and virtue don't exist in this worried world.

These statements may occasion little surprise to readers of Faulkner's novels. But has he did he get such a cynical, contemptuous picture of humanity? Surely he didn't get it from his neighbors in Oxford, Mississippi. We don't think his observation is appropriate to any part of America. We doubt that it could be applied accurately to any sizable piece of the world. He must be talking about people in books.

Big problems are only the combined product of little factors. For proof ask any school teacher.

RADIO AND MUSIC

The National Broadcasting Company's brightest star used to be Arturo Toscanini, universally acknowledged as the world's greatest symphonic conductor. Toscanini is not conducting this year. The excuse is that he is not well. The truth is that his program has been shifted to 10 o'clock on Monday nights; that inappropriate facilities have been provided for his orchestra, and that he refuses to play.

At 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoons, for as many years as can be remembered, the New York Philharmonic was carried by the Columbia Broadcasting System. It was carried "live." Now it is a recorded program, carried at 1 p. m., two hours before the actual concert. A recorded symphony is not a live program. If Columbia can carry the program recorded at 1 p. m., it can carry it live at 3 p. m.

The American Broadcasting Company still carries the Metropolitan Opera, which is sponsored by the Texas Company. All hail, Texas Oil!

Sundays used to be devoted to fine programs on radio. This year music of quality has been disappearing, except on those stations which make a specialty of recorded music.

Radio is a peculiar business. Its revenue comes not from those who listen but from advertisers, euphemistically called sponsors. As the networks and stations do not own the vehicle of transmission, the air waves, they are dependent upon the actual owner, the government of the United States, for their licenses. These may be renewed or withdrawn without any regard to the investment of private enterprisers in the business.

To satisfy the owner of the air waves, whose agent is the Federal Communications Commission, the networks and the local stations are required to provide a ratio of programs which are in the public interest. No provision is made as to when such programs are to appear. It is in this category that religious, educational and many musical programs appear.

The radio networks divide their programs into three categories: 1. Sponsored; 2. Co-operative; 3. Sustaining.

The sponsored programs earn the money. They are controlled by advertising agencies. They are given the best time, no matter what the merit of the program may be. Sometimes they are without merit but are vehicles to attract attention to the "commercial."

An American newspaper's best space is the first page. That is never for sale to advertisers. Nor is the editorial page. In radio, it is different. The best time goes to the highest bidder.

The co-operative programs involve a different process. The network offers the program on the assumption that it may be of value, but is currently, for one reason or another, not acceptable to the advertising agencies. Often these programs are in excellent taste. The local stations carry them free of charge, or if they can get a local advertiser, they split the fee three ways, among the local station, the network and the talent.

These programs are miserably handled by many local stations, which push them all over the schedule. A program will be running for a year and building a following. Then a local optician or a loan shark wants the time (which is usually at a low price) and the station sells it to him, possibly with recorded hill-billy songs, thus avoiding both network and talent charges. To continue the fiction of public service, the co-operative program may be shunted to after midnight, the station expecting no listeners but maintaining a record to show to the F.C.C. when called upon.

The sustaining programs are usually those for which neither networks nor stations will accept revenue, such as religious programs, speeches by distinguished citizens and so on.

Television has completely upset the radio business because it costs too much and the companies are in the investment stage. This adds to the confusion because radio has to pay to keep television going. The networks, on account of their television losses, are uncomfortable.

Television may not survive if this war lasts long, because it may be necessary to reduce its scope in order to build a radar fence around our country. I do not pretend to understand the techniques involved in all this, but this is true: That while the Russians built a radar fence about their country, we built a television system.

The system of programming in radio is dominated by advertising agencies, which lack perspective on public service, as they probably have to if they are to earn their way.

DAMAGED HEART

Many think that once the heart is damaged by coronary thrombosis (heart stroke) or by an attack of rheumatic fever, the patient will inevitably have another heart stroke, and that he may drop dead at any time. What they forget is that the heart is very strong and even the damaged heart will often withstand the ordinary work required of it for a full lifetime.

We can compare a damaged heart to a bridge that has withstood heavy loads for many years. It was perhaps a 10-ton bridge when it was built but after many years of use, bridge inspectors, instead of pulling it down, change the sign from a 10 tons to five tons, which means that it will withstand the weight of five tons for many years to come.

Some years ago I quoted Dr. Paul D. White, Harvard University, as follows, in Clinical Medicine: "A patient with a damaged heart may live long and happily. We must learn to recognize the difference between immediate and later danger in these cases. The heart is a tough organ which will stand abuse and recover even after serious damage."

The danger to a damaged heart can be increased by fear, even more than by heavy exertion or work. From the straight physical standpoint, a patient may withstand several attacks of coronary thrombosis, if he remains 4 to 6 weeks in bed after each attack.

Further information regarding the heart as stated by Dr. White should be comforting to heart patients. Patients with other forms of heart disease, such as tachycardia (very rapid beating of the heart) and rheumatic heart disease can avoid serious damage by remaining in bed for several weeks after an attack has passed.

Heart disease is always a serious matter, but the heart can stand a great amount of damage without death occurring. One of the greatest dangers in cases of damaged hearts is the damage done to the whole body, including the heart, by fear.

The heart may be damaged but can still carry half its former load. Heart disease, though so serious, may still allow the heart to carry on its work for many years if the patient will remember to live an easier life and follow his doctor's orders as to eating, sleeping, and exercise.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington, Dec. 14, '50

Dear Daughter,

Well, you have made your father a grandpa again!

It begins to make me feel a little old. Of course, we are only as old as we feel, but today I confess to feeling quite a little older and a bit discouraged—discouraged over the state of the world. It is not a very promising world for my new grandson to face. We who preceded him and who were supposed to have built a better world have failed.

The only encouraging thing is that there will be 20 years or so before he has to face the tangled skein of world disunity, and perhaps by that time we can untangle some of our tragic mistakes.

One of the mistakes we are making today is intolerance, disunity and a quickness to judge that plays squarely into Moscow's hands. It is a new sixth column. We go from one extreme to another in this country, like an animated shuttlecock. It reminds me of the way we painted yellow stripes on the house of Lindbergh's father and threw people into jail as Socialists right after World War I.

Soviet Spy Ring Exposed

It also reminds me of the deluge of mail I got in February 1946 when I exposed the Soviet spy ring in Canada.

Scores of people wrote me that time denouncing me as a warmonger, as a disrupter of American-Russian relations, and a threat to world peace. I am sure these people were sincere, well-meaning, and thought that they were right and I was wrong. Frankly I heaved a sigh of relief when the Canadian prime minister, Mackenzie King, issued an official statement confirming the spy ring. That was the only thing that stopped the deluge of letters calling me a liar.

I don't know whether my office has kept those letters but if so, I ought to send them up to Senator McCarthy to show what others have done—long before his unbalanced tirades—to try to keep this country informed on Soviet dangers. I fear McCarthy, however, is influenced by only one motive—his passion for headlines and more lecture fees.

At any rate, what I am getting at is that this country swings from extreme to extreme. Some of the people who berated me four years ago for exposing Russia may be among those who now are just as vehement on the other side. These are tired, disillusioned, disappointed, and you can't particularly blame them. However, the important thing is that we must not be swayed back and forth from extreme to extreme. We must keep the middle road.

It is not enough these days to be anti-Communist. We must be pro-American. The first democratic rights any dictator must strangle are the right of a free press and free speech. The sixth columnists and the McCarthyites have already started this by branding those who disagree with them as Communists.

B-29 Spy Ring

I remember in September 1947 having written an expose of the Communist spy ring in a Washington suburb which stole the secret blueprints of B-29s. The story seemed so sensational that some editors at that time would not publish it. And it was not until a year later, when the House Un-American Activities Committee finally got around to the story, that some of these same editors gave the story headlines.

At the time I wrote the first story of the Canadian spy ring, I also called on the chief assistant of Jimmie Byrnes, then secretary of state, and suggested that he ought to make an investigation of Alger Hiss. It looked to me as if Hiss had been leaking information to the Russians—though I couldn't tell for sure. Byrnes did investigate and Hiss left the State Department.

It was impossible for me to tell whether he was a Communist—an extremely serious charge for a newspaperman to make, even though it is brandished about so irresponsibly on the floor of the Senate. But I was sure that Hiss should not be in a high government position, and my conviction has been justified.

All this was in February 1946, four years before McCarthy suddenly discovered an easy way to make headlines.

Italian Communist Plot

In the summer of 1945, just after Fred Vinson, now chief justice, became secretary of the treasury, I went to him to suggest that he investigate one of his top assistants whom I suspected of being pro-Communist. Vinson did investigate and as a result let the man out.

The man is dead now and there is no use mentioning his name. In fact, I have never mentioned the incident before, not even to Mrs. P. But I did want my daughter to know in these days when the label "Communist" is dished out so recklessly on the floor of the Senate that her father has been doing his part for many years to get rid of communism in vital places.

There was another interesting occasion in September 1947 when I published a confidential report of Communist plans to seize control of Italy. Included in the expose were the location of secret Communist ammunition dumps and the names of Communist leaders, among them Giuseppe Dozza, mayor of Bologna.

Four months later, when I got to Bologna on the Friendship Train Mayor Dozza waved the clipping to American newsmen and denounced me and the Friendship Train. He was the only mayor in Italy who refused to welcome us.

I couldn't help but remember, when I was in Italy, that its dictator once marched on Rome with the excuse of "saving Italy from communism." However, force never cures force, and many of his Blackshirts are now the backbone of the Italian Communist party.

So the thing for us to remember in these difficult days is that democracy can be choked to death just as effectively by a Fascist dictator as by a Communist dictator.

In fact, there is no better way to play into the hands of Moscow than to create disunity, lack of confidence, and doubt. There is no time more advantageous for the Kremlin to strike than when we lack confidence in our leaders and when our country is torn by strife.

And the best way to do this is the Moscow-Hitler technique of repeating again and again the big lie and the big smear.

Again I apologize for writing such a discouraging letter on what should be such a joyous occasion—the advent of a new grandson. But I hope that long before he gets old enough to cope with the affairs of the world, his elders will have learned to have more sense.

Love from
THE OLD MAN

Hoover, Dewey Offer Forthright Plans Missing in Anything From Government

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 22—President Truman, in his recent statement, very properly invited Republicans who have "alternative policies" to come forth with them.

Former President Hoover and Governor Dewey, twice a nominee for the presidency on the Republican ticket, are presenting alternative policies. What they advocate has a positiveness and a forthrightness which is missing in governmental pronouncements. But it isn't easy for President Truman to make American policy nowadays—he has to be governed by what other members of the United Nations may say or do.

While there are parts of what both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Dewey said with which there will be disagreement expressed, the fact remains that these two men are reflecting a certain dissatisfaction in this country with the administration's foreign policy that cannot be cleared up by merely calling for unity and less partisanship.

Something deeper has been revealed in these cleavages. The American people are asking for leadership, and there can be a unified policy agreeable to all elements of the nation only when due consideration is given to criticism.

If ever there was a time to examine dispassionately and without emotion the points of criticism that are being made about the world situation, it is now. These criticisms boil down to this:

1. Member countries of the United Nations have let America down. They have not supplied the manpower needed in Korea since the crisis arose there last June.

2. The impression has spread throughout the world that the United States and not the United Nations is fighting in Korea. Who is responsible for that impression and what is going to be done about it by the U. S. and the U.N.? Senators Ferguson of Michigan, Republican, and Green of Rhode Island, Democrat, were quoted in Tokyo yesterday as saying that, wherever they have traveled in Asia, the idea is prevalent that this is just a U. S. conflict with Communist China. This is exactly the line that Moscow has sought to implant by propaganda.

3. The United States does not have the manpower to defend Europe if by this is meant that America must supply the bulk of the troops. The American people are behind the North Atlantic Pact and applaud the designation of General Eisenhower as supreme commander, but it was about time somebody told the European peoples that the American people are sick and tired of the dillydallying about the defense of Europe. Europeans must show, more than they have these last few years, a willingness to mobilize and to fight.

4. The American people are growing weary over the vacillation in the U.N. and the evident attempts at "appeasement" by governments that seem to be playing ball with the Communists or trying to do so while professing to be friendly to democracy and opposed to aggression.

5. Failure of the U.N. to pronounce Communist China an "aggressor" has caused profound disappointment throughout the United States.

It is plain from the foregoing outline that America's policy in world affairs needs clarification and strengthening and that members of the U.N. should learn somehow in positive terms from somebody that American patience is wearing out.

That's the true meaning of some of the points made in the Dewey and Hoover speeches. The detailed programs they offer may bring dissent for various reasons but in the main the speeches have notified the world and particularly Europe that America expects other nations to do their duty not only in a military way but in espousing the basic principles of morality which have been written into the United Nations charter itself.

Enter here total number of exemptions claimed (yours and your wife's plus one for each dependent listed above) → 5

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
NEA Special Correspondent

In spite of higher taxes this year, you still get $600 knocked off your income for each exemption.

That's why it is even more important to know exactly what exemptions to claim on your 1950 return. Even if you think you know all your exemptions, read this article carefully. You might find one you didn't know about.

As explained, you must file a return if you had $600 or more income in 1950.

On that return, you can claim the following exemptions:

1. $600 for yourself, plus $600 if you were 65 or older in 1950, plus $600 if you were blind in 1950.

2. $600 for your wife, if she had no income or if she filed a joint return with you, plus $600 if she was 65 or older in 1950 and plus $600 if she was blind in 1950.

3. $600 for each legal dependent as defined below.

If you are legally married, as defined in the first article, and your wife had no income in 1950 you can either file a joint return with her or you can file a separate return and claim her as an exemption, provided no one else claims her as a dependent.

In most cases where the wife had no income it is better to file a joint return because that permits you to "split" your income, resulting in a lower tax. If you file a separate return, even though you claim your wife as an exemption, you cannot use the "split income" method of computing the tax.

If you want to file a joint return with your wife, you must show both names on the top line of the tax return and both must sign near the bottom. If you file a separate return, show only your name on the top line and your signature near the bottom.

If your wife had any income in 1950, even though it's only a few dollars, you can only claim her as an exemption if you file a joint return and add her income to yours.

This rule does not apply to other legal dependents. For example, if your son earned anything less than $500 in 1950, you can still claim him as an exemption if you supported him. And you don't have to add his income to yours. Furthermore, if any income tax was withheld on his earnings, he can file a return and get back the tax withheld.

John and Jane Public, the taxpayers shown in the example, are filing a joint return. If you think it might be better for you and your wife to file separate returns, work out the tax both ways and compare the results.

Be sure to indicate by check mark whether husband or wife—either or both—is blind, or over 65, or both. Every truthful "Yes" is worth the tax on $600 to you. A false "Yes" is perjury and can be punished severely.

For 1950 income tax purposes any taxpayer, or spouse, is over 65 if he or she had the 65th birthday on or before January 1, 1951.

If either is over 65 he can claim the extra $600 even though the other is under 65.

O taxpayer is blind if the best eye, with correcting lens, is not better than 20/200, or if the angle of vision is as little as 20 degrees.

If either husband or wife is legally blind he can claim the extra $600 exemption, even though the other has perfect vision.

Be sure to fill in the number of exemptions for you and your wife in the spaces shown above, opposite your names. You can easily tell whether to write "1," "2," or "3" by reading the simple instructions just above the spaces.

In the spaces provided, list the legal dependents claimed by you and your wife if you are filing a joint return).

A legal dependent is any "close relative" who had less than $500 income in 1950, to whose support you or your wife contributed as much as a penny more than half, whether the contribution was in money, in room and board, in merchandise, or in a combination of these. The dependent's age, physical or mental condition, why he needed or received your support do not matter.

The law defines "close relative" to include:

1. Your child, or the child's descendant (a legally adopted child is considered as a child by blood);

2. Your stepchild, but not the stepchild's descendants;

3. Your brother or sister, half-brother or half-sister; stepbrother or stepsister;

4. Your parent, grandparent, or other direct ancestor.

5. Your stepfather or stepmother;

6. Your uncle, aunt, nephew or niece, but not their husbands or wives. Cousins are not recognized as dependents.

7. Your father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, son-in-law, or daughter-in-law.

A child born alive any time in 1950 is a legal dependent even if he lives only momentarily.

A person who died any time in 1950 and who was dependent during as much of 1950 as he lived can be claimed as a dependent for the entire year.

A person alive throughout 1950, but dependent only part of the year, was legally dependent either all year or none. It depends on whether you contributed more than half to his support for the entire year, measured in dollars and cents instead of in time.

Even though he satisfied all other requirements, a dependent can be claimed only if he is a citizen of the United States, or, if not such a citizen, if he is a resident of the United States, Canada or Mexico.

A married dependent whose exemption is claimed on a joint return with husband or wife cannot also be claimed by parents or others.

The only time any person can be claimed as an exemption on more than one return is in the case of a dependent who earned less than $500 during the year on which tax was withheld. Such a dependent provides an exemption for the person who supported him. And, technically, he claims his own exemption when he files his own return in order to get back the taxes that were withheld.

There is no extra exemption for dependents who are blind or over 65.

Keep in mind that married couples filing a joint return can list both the husband's and wife's dependents. If separate returns are filed, the husband cannot claim his wife's dependents and vice versa.

TAX PRIMER Q. & A.

Q. I supported my mother until she passed away on March 12, 1950. May I claim her as a dependent?

A. You may if she had less than $500 taxable income in 1950. Even though she died in March, you get a $600 exemption for her.

Q. My father received $600 disability pension from Veterans Administration, yet I contributed over half to his support. May I claim him as a dependent?

A. You may. His $600 pension is not taxable income.

Q. My 65th birthday is on Jan. 1, 1951. Do I get an extra exemption for 1950?

A. You do.

Q. My wife earned $300 in 1950. Can I show her as an exemption?

A. Only if you file a joint return and then her $300 income must be added to yours.

Q. My wife, who died on Sept. 12, 1950, would have been 65 on Nov. 15, 1950. Do I get an "over 65" exemption for her?

A. No. You would, though, if she had reached 65 before she died.

More Vehicles Registered

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—More motor vehicles were registered in New York state in the first 10 months of this year than in all of last year. The State Motor Vehicle Bureau said yesterday registrations totaled 3,799,092 for the first 10 months of this year, 232,386 more than the record-breaking 3,799,092 for the preceding 12 months. Registrations for 1951, now on sale, will exceed 4,000,000, the bureau predicted. Motor vehicle receipts from last Jan. 1 through Nov. 1 totaled $74,473,758, up 2.4 per cent from last year's 10-month total of $72,698,883.

Planning Jumbo Carrier

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The navy is planning another jumbo size aircraft carrier. But it will not be quite as large as the huge flush-deck carrier "United States" which was abandoned in the keel-laying stage by order of former Secretary of Defense Johnson. Vice Admiral Lynde McCormick, vice chief of naval operations, said plans for the big new flattop should reach Congress before long.

① A look at the Car proves its Quality

② A look at the Price proves its Value!

In the short time since it was presented, thousands of people have flocked to see the great new Silver Anniversary Pontiac—few cars have ever had a reception to equal this. Most people came to admire, which is natural enough. But a great many people do more than admire, they start figuring—they begin to compare this wonderfully beautiful and desirable car with the modest price tag it bears. No car, at any price, offers more for every new car dollar you invest than a great new Pontiac! Drop in any time and look at the car—then look at the price—you'll be doubly sure that dollar for dollar, you can't beat a Pontiac!

Not So Suspicious

Ballston Spa., N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—Sheriff's deputies took into custody four men whom villagers considered "suspicious-looking." The four were released almost immediately. That was a week ago. Yesterday, Sheriff Frank Hathorn disclosed that the four were internal revenue agents looking for a still.

Your Income Tax Primer

1. List your own name. If married and your wife (or husband) had no income, or if this is a joint return of husband and wife, list name of your wife (or husband).

List names of other close relatives (as defined in instructions) with 1950 gross income of less than $500 who received more than one-half of their support from you in 1950. If this is a joint return of husband and wife, list dependent relatives of both.

| | Check below whether you (or your wife) were at the end of your taxable year— 65 OR OVER | | BLIND | | On lines a and b below— Write 1 if neither 65 nor blind; Write 2 if either 65 or blind; Write 3 if both 65 and blind. |

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
NEA Special Correspondent

In spite of higher taxes this year, you still get $600 knocked off your income for each exemption.

That's why it is even more important to know exactly what exemptions to claim on your 1950 return. Even if you think you know all your exemptions, read this article carefully. You might find one you didn't know about.

As explained, you must file a return if you had $600 or more income in 1950.

On that return, you can claim the following exemptions:

1. $600 for yourself, plus $600 if you were 65 or older in 1950, plus $600 if you were blind in 1950.

2. $600 for your wife, if she had no income or if she filed a joint return with you, plus $600 if she was 65 or older in 1950 and plus $600 if she was blind in 1950.

3. $600 for each legal dependent as defined below.

If you are legally married, as defined in the first article, and your wife had no income in 1950 you can either file a joint return with her or you can file a separate return and claim her as an exemption, provided no one else claims her as a dependent.

In most cases where the wife had no income it is better to file a joint return because that permits you to "split" your income, resulting in a lower tax. If you file a separate return, even though you claim your wife as an exemption, you cannot use the "split income" method of computing the tax.

If you want to file a joint return with your wife, you must show both names on the top line of the tax return and both must sign near the bottom. If you file a separate return, show only your name on the top line and your signature near the bottom.

If your wife had any income in 1950, even though it's only a few dollars, you can only claim her as an exemption if you file a joint return and add her income to yours.

This rule does not apply to other legal dependents. For example, if your son earned anything less than $500 in 1950, you can still claim him as an exemption if you supported him. And you don't have to add his income to yours. Furthermore, if any income tax was withheld on his earnings, he can file a return and get back the tax withheld.

John and Jane Public, the taxpayers shown in the example, are filing a joint return. If you think it might be better for you and your wife to file separate returns, work out the tax both ways and compare the results.

Be sure to indicate by check mark whether husband or wife—either or both—is blind, or over 65, or both. Every truthful "Yes" is worth the tax on $600 to you. A false "Yes" is perjury and can be punished severely.

For 1950 income tax purposes any taxpayer, or spouse, is over 65 if he or she had the 65th birthday on or before January 1, 1951.

If either is over 65 he can claim the extra $600 even though the other is under 65.

O taxpayer is blind if the best eye, with correcting lens, is not better than 20/200, or if the angle of vision is as little as 20 degrees.

If either husband or wife is legally blind he can claim the extra $600 exemption, even though the other has perfect vision.

Be sure to fill in the number of exemptions for you and your wife in the spaces shown above, opposite your names. You can easily tell whether to write "1," "2," or "3" by reading the simple instructions just above the spaces.

In the spaces provided, list the legal dependents claimed by you and your wife if you are filing a joint return).

A legal dependent is any "close relative" who had less than $500 income in 1950, to whose support you or your wife contributed as much as a penny more than half, whether the contribution was in money, in room and board, in merchandise, or in a combination of these. The dependent's age, physical or mental condition, why he needed or received your support do not matter.

The law defines "close relative" to include:

1. Your child, or the child's descendant (a legally adopted child is considered as a child by blood);

2. Your stepchild, but not the stepchild's descendants;

3. Your brother or sister, half-brother or half-sister; stepbrother or stepsister;

4. Your parent, grandparent, or other direct ancestor.

5. Your stepfather or stepmother;

6. Your uncle, aunt, nephew or niece, but not their husbands or wives. Cousins are not recognized as dependents.

7. Your father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, son-in-law, or daughter-in-law.

A child born alive any time in 1950 is a legal dependent even if he lives only momentarily.

A person who died any time in 1950 and who was dependent during as much of 1950 as he lived can be claimed as a dependent for the entire year.

A person alive throughout 1950, but dependent only part of the year, was legally dependent either all year or none. It depends on whether you contributed more than half to his support for the entire year, measured in dollars and cents instead of in time.

Even though he satisfied all other requirements, a dependent can be claimed only if he is a citizen of the United States, or, if not such a citizen, if he is a resident of the United States, Canada or Mexico.

A married dependent whose exemption is claimed on a joint return with husband or wife cannot also be claimed by parents or others.

The only time any person can be claimed as an exemption on more than one return is in the case of a dependent who earned less than $500 during the year on which tax was withheld. Such a dependent provides an exemption for the person who supported him. And, technically, he claims his own exemption when he files his own return in order to get back the taxes that were withheld.

There is no extra exemption for dependents who are blind or over 65.

Keep in mind that married couples filing a joint return can list both the husband's and wife's dependents. If separate returns are filed, the husband cannot claim his wife's dependents and vice versa.

TAX PRIMER Q. & A.

Q. I supported my mother until she passed away on March 12, 1950. May I claim her as a dependent?

A. You may if she had less than $500 taxable income in 1950. Even though she died in March, you get a $600 exemption for her.

Q. My father received $600 disability pension from Veterans Administration, yet I contributed over half to his support. May I claim him as a dependent?

A. You may. His $600 pension is not taxable income.

Q. My 65th birthday is on Jan. 1, 1951. Do I get an extra exemption for 1950?

A. You do.

Q. My wife earned $300 in 1950. Can I show her as an exemption?

A. Only if you file a joint return and then her $300 income must be added to yours.

Q. My wife, who died on Sept. 12, 1950, would have been 65 on Nov. 15, 1950. Do I get an "over 65" exemption for her?

A. No. You would, though, if she had reached 65 before she died.

A Christmas Toast

Pity the cop on the corner,
Faithfully guarding his post,
Freezing his feet in the snow and slush,
Calmly directing the holiday rush.
Gentlemen drink to my toast:
Here's to the cop on the corner.
Here's to the cop on the corner,
Patiently guiding the host,
Coat pockets bulging with mellow cigars,
Twenties and tens from the automocars . . .
Gentlemen, drink to my toast;
Pity the cop on the corner.

Again the spirit of Christmas is in the air, and this year Nature has dressed herself in her best for the occasion. The serenity with which an "old fashioned winter" has made its bow opens our hearts in sympathy for our less fortunate fellowmen, and makes us deeply realize the true meaning of the Christmas tidings of "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men." May the blessings of this happy Yuletide season be with you throughout the coming year, and give you new courage and faith for the tasks that lie ahead.

Remember all these people who swore last year that this year they would do their Christmas shopping early? Most of them didn't.

Hospital to Hold Annual Meeting, Elect New Trustees

John D. Shoonmaker, president of the Board of Trustees of Kingston Hospital, announced at a recent meeting of the board that the annual meeting of The Kingston Hospital Association will be held Jan. 16, at 4 p. m. in the nurses' home.

Three-year terms of four members of the Board of Trustees have expired, and a nominating committee appointed by a majority of the members of the board is to submit candidates for election at the January meeting.

The board announced that there are two types of membership in the association; one in which a contribution of $25 qualifies the donor to a life membership, and the other in which $5 is for a membership of a year. Contributions may be given through the building fund subscription book or directly to the hospital.

In announcing the date of the Jan. 16 meeting President Schoonmaker referred to the section of the by-laws which states: "The control of the affairs of the corporation shall be vested in a board of 12 trustees, elected by the members of the corporations for a term of three years. The terms of four of the members shall expire each year."

Disaster Is Averted

Newark, N. J., Dec. 22 (AP)—Officials agreed today that a possible major rail disaster was averted yesterday because a crack Pennsylvania Railroad express—derailed just outside the station—had slowed for its Newark stop. Nine cars of the 13-car Philadelphia-Newark train left the tracks in the accident but only 12 persons were injured, none critically. Hundreds of feet of track were ripped up as automatic safety equipment stopped the train just short of the station. Police said the derailment apparently was caused by a detective undercarriage on one of the center cars.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Dec. 22 — D. H. Dunbar, chairman of the Town of Esopus in the recent drive for the Kingston Hospital Fund, has announced that to date 397 subscriptions have been pledged to the amount of $4,346 for the township. Persons who were not contacted in the Town of Esopus may contribute to the fund by calling 1787.

The Ulster Park-Port Ewen W.C.T.U. will hold the regular meeting and Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Otis Terwilliger Wednesday, Dec. 27, at 2 p. m. Each one is requested to bring a gift for exchange. The word for roll call is peace.

Mrs. D. Bigler who has been spending a few days at the home of her sister, Miss Daisy Ellsworth has returned to her home in West New York, N. J.

Members of Esopus Council, 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, celebrated their 53rd anniversary by attending a banquet at the Kirkland Hotel in Kingston this week. Tables were decorated with cut flowers and lighted Christmas candles. Favors were in keeping with the holiday season. After dinner members met with Katherine A. Schleede, former state associate councilor, at her home in Kingston. After a short business meeting, the annual Christmas party with exchange of gifts was held. Games were played and refreshments served by the hostess who was assisted by her daughter, Miss Ethel Schleede. An anniversary poem was read by Mrs. Schleede. Those attending were Mrs. Mary E. Best, Mrs. Mary A. Holliday, Mrs. Emma LeFever, Mrs. Martha Van Vliet, Mrs. Elsie Groves, Mrs. Nellie J. Bigler, West New York, N. J., Miss Millie Short, Kingston; and Miss Mary F. Bishop.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed McBroom, Mrs. Margaret Whitaker and Mrs. Vivian Stadt distributed gifts to two wards at Castle Point Wednesday.

The Altar Guild of the Methodist Church will not meet for the regular December meeting. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Jan. 23.

There will be a midnight service at the Methodist Church Sunday at 11 o'clock with Holy Communion and candlelights. The Rev. Ivan F. Gossoo, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Kingston, will be in charge. He will be assisted by the Rev. Harry E. Christiana of the Port Ewen Reformed Church. The public is invited.

The Sunday school of the Reformed Church will hold its Christmas party at the church tonight at 7:30.

Acheson Scheduled

Former President Herbert Hoover in his New York speech Wednesday night.

Mr. Truman, in yesterday's statement, expressed confidence that "the free states of Europe mean business about setting up our common defense system."

The roadrunner bird of the southwest is protected by federal law.

Seeks to Adopt Brothers and Sisters

Joseph Hernandez, (center), 23, former GI, is surrounded by his sisters and brothers whom he is seeking to adopt. As their parents are dead he wants to have the children declared wholly dependent on him so that if he enters the service again they will be entitled to $125 a month in family allowances. Sisters, left to right, are Pearl, 17, and Irma, 15. Brothers, left to right, are Roger, 11, and Hector, 13. (AP Wirephoto).

Red China's . . .

South Korean capital. The other runs northwest of Seoul to Pyongyang, Korean Red capital.

Heavy Traffic Noted

Noting unmistakably heavy traffic behind enemy lines and continued probing thrusts, MacArthur observed:

"This is normally the initial phase of an impending attack."

In northeast Korea, American rapid-fire rocked ships moved close inshore at Hungnam Thursday and joined other warships, planes and field artillery in laying a fiery shield from close range around the beachhead.

Use of the rocket ships in defense of the Hungnam perimeter for the first time indicated that the Reds are closing in.

The flat trajectory and comcomparatively short range of the rocket ships indicated the Reds were being held at bay closer to the beachhead.

No description of the vessels was given, but rocket-firing craft were used to support the allied landings at Inchon on the west coast in September. They were used also late in World War 2.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton reported small but persistent Red efforts to penetrate the northern flank of the perimeter were beaten off by American doughboys early Friday. Intense allied firepower still thwarted Red attempts to build up sizable assault forces.

Replace Chinese

Chinese appeared to have been replaced by North Koreans in the Hungnam sector.

MacArthur's late Friday war summary said it was possible that the Chinese had moved southwest across the peninsula and into action near the 38th Parallel above Seoul.

The summary said the use of pack horses and camels northeast of Chunchon "suggests that the attackers were Chinese Communist forces."

Thus far, however, no Chinese troops have been reported identified positively south of Parallel 38.

MacArthur's summary said enemy units in the Ichon-Kumhwa-Hwachon and Yonchon area, almost in the dead center of the peninsula, have been probing United Nations lines there for eight days. Most thrusts have been aimed at feeling out the U.N. strength astride the three main arteries leading south to tense Seoul.

The general said signs of an offensive were seen in the increasing activity in the vicinity of Hwachon, north of Chunchon, and the positions of enemy forces totalling possibly three corps as a forward echelon. That is a potential of 10 to 12 divisions, perhaps 80,000 to 100,000 men.

See Life Around Plane

Clark Air Force Base, Philippines, Dec. 22 (AP)—Three persons were seen moving today around the wreckage of a U. S. military C-54 transport that crashed Tuesday high on 9,234-foot Mount Tabayoc with 37 persons aboard. Air observers said there was a remote possibility they may be survivors of the crash but cautioned they more likely are natives. Air force officials earlier said all 37 in the plane were presumed dead. A 15-man team of trained mountain climbers guided by tribesmen was trudging up the 9,234-foot mountain.

Warmer in Midwest

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP)—Today was the first day of the winter season and the warmest in the chilled midwest in weeks. Temperatures moderated over the eastern half of the country but they still were a little on the chilly side. The cold air which hit the midwest earlier in the week had spread to the Atlantic coast. There were no zero readings over the north central region. Fair and mild weather continued over most of the western half of the country except for showers in western Washington.

Frangello Injured

Michael Frangello, 30, of R.D. Saugerties suffered lacerations to the face Thursday night when his automobile swerved off the Flatbush road two miles north of Kingston, rolled down an embankment and overturned, according to a report made to state police at Lake Katrine. Frangello was taken to Kingston Hospital. He told troopers his car left the road when he was blinded by the headlights of an unknown on-coming vehicle about 8 p. m.

Local Death Record

Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie Van Slyke Owen, who died suddenly today at her residence, "Rockhurst," on Marius street, will be held on Saturday at 2:30 p. m. from the First Dutch Reformed Church. Place of burial will be announced later. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Stuart Huckins of Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Mrs. Rae H. De Forest, wife of Charles De Forest of 20 East St. James street, died this morning. The funeral will be held from the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. Burial will be in the Woodstock Cemetery. Besides her husband, she is survived by two grandchildren.

Mrs. Kate Heisner of 545 Abeel street died late Thursday afternoon following a lengthy illness. She was the widow of Fred Heisner. She is survived by a sister, Miss Mary E. Schick; and several nieces and nephews. She was born in Wilbur and resided at 545 Abeel street all her life. She was a member of the Trinity Lutheran Church since childhood. The funeral will be held from the late home Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Burial will take place in the family plot in Montrepose Cemetery. Friends may call at the residence at any time.

The funeral of Frank T. Pinkman who died Tuesday at his residence, 72 Wiltwyck avenue, was held from the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, at 9:30 a. m., thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 10 a. m. today a solemn requiem high Mass was offered. The celebrant at the Mass was the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Stephen P. Connelly, pastor; the Rev. John D. Simmons, assistant pastor, was deacon and the Rev. James B. Keating, second assistant pastor, was sub-deacon. Father Keating performed the last rites at St. Mary's Cemetery. Thursday night Monsignor Connelly and Father Simmons recited the Rosary at the funeral parlors at 8 o'clock. At 8:30, members of Golden Rule Locomotive Engineers Lodge, 184, of which Mr. Pinkman was the founder and first chairman, held ritualistic services. Bearers were Oliver Dunbar, David Roach, Gus Kogel, Thomas Quest, S. Cable and Edward Schoonmaker.

Long Negotiations

contribution or the extent of future German independence.

The committees, after their laborious and complicated discussions, have to report back to the Allied High Commission. Further talks with the chancellor will follow. Results of negotiations finally go to the Big Three foreign ministers for consideration.

Competent observers consider Adenauer is pleased with allied willingness to listen to his pleas for German equality.

He also reportedly has told the high commissioners he considers the appointment of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as convincing evidence the allies are really earnest in their endeavor to create an adequate defense for western Europe.

Lawyers Nominate

Poughkeepsie, Dec. 22—John B. Van DeWater has been nominated as president of the Dutchess County Bar Association for 1951. Election will be held in the court house on January 13. William B. Duggan has been nominated for first vice president and Joseph A. McCabe for second vice president.

Tug Is Sought

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—The coast guard swept the eastern waters of Lake Erie for the fourth straight day today in an effort to find some trace of the missing tug Sachem. The tug, with 12 men aboard, left Buffalo for Dunkirk Monday morning and disappeared completely.

Mrs. Scott Free

Los Angeles, Dec. 22 (AP)—Mrs. Elaine Scott is free to marry writer John Steinbeck Sunday in New York. She obtained her final divorce decree yesterday from actor Zachary Scott. She had won the interlocutory decree Dec. 1, 1949.

About the Folks

Mrs. Nathan L. Feldman, 110 Wall street, who underwent an operation recently at the Kingston hospital, is convalescing at her home.

Financial and Commercial

By WILLIAM D. HORGAN

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Lively demand for auto stocks highlighted today's market.

Gains ranged to around $1 a share following overnight news that General Motors Corp. had accepted the government's price rollback order. The motor company had withdrawn its cars from the market pending an appeal of the order which was denied.

Rail issues were sensitive to only modest offerings and a couple fell back more than $1 a share. Traders evidently did not take too kindly to settlement of a 22-month wage dispute in the industry.

The balance of the market fiddled along without getting far one way or another. Gains and losses, none very large, were pretty evenly distributed.

Business continued at an unusually high level, at a rate close to yesterday's 3,000,000 shares or so.

Higher prices were paid for General Motors, Chrysler, Studebaker, Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Rubber, Schenley, Armour, Southern Co., American Smelting, Dome Mines, du Pont, Eastman Kodak, American Woolen, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, Western Maryland, and Texas Co.

Hanging back were Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Union Pacific, N. Y. Central, Woolworth, International Harvester, International Nickel, General Electric, and Johns-Manville.

Railroad issues improved a bit in the bond market. U. S. Governments held steady in over-the-counter dealings.

Boosted in the curb were Pancoastal Oil, Raytheon Mfg., Solar Aircraft, Colonial Airlines, Detroit Gray Iron, Louisiana Land, Hollinger Gold, Glen Alden Coal, and Cities Service.

Lone Star Gas slipped, with Fansteel Metallurgical, Kaiser-Frazer, and Northrop Aircraft.

Guralnick Given Into Custody of Ulster's Sheriff

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Morris Guralnick, termed by the FBI "one of the 10 most wanted criminals in the country" before his capture last week, was turned over to New York state authorities today.

The short, wiry, 35-year-old Guralnick had been in custody of federal officials since his arrest last Friday in Madison, Wis.

He had been the object of a nationwide hunt since July 11, 1948, when he and three other prisoners broke out of the Ulster County Jail at Kingston, N. Y. The other two were recaptured shortly after the break.

Arraigned in Federal Court today as a fugitive, Guralnick chuckled when Assistant U. S. Attorney Florence Perlow Shientag described him as a "dangerous character."

Court-appointed defense attorney Henry Chapman reported Guralnick had a blackened eye and 15 or 20 bruises which the prisoner said police gave him at the time of his arrest. The government attorney said this happened because Guralnick "is usually armed, has an excitable temperament and put up a fight."

Guralnick cut in, "I've never been violent in my life."

The court turned the prisoner over to George C. Smith, sheriff of Ulster county, where Guralnick was in jail on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon at the time of his escape.

His capture in Wisconsin came after a student spotted him as one of the "10 most wanted criminals" pictured in a magazine.

Man Is Injured

John Rosa, R.D., Kingston suffered a lip laceration in an automobile mishap at Broadway and Liberty street early today. The police report at 3.32 a. m., today by Officer Raymond Wells said Rosa was driving north on Broadway. The other vehicles involved were a truck owned by Floyd Christian, R.D., Ghent, and an unknown car. Both were parked on Broadway, the report said.

17 Persons Injured

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren reported 17 persons injured in 10 city traffic mihaps during November in submitting his monthly report to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday. Of these nine involved motor vehicles alone and one involved a motor vehicle and bicycle. The report showed 41 arrests for the month.

Central Hudson Dividend

The board of directors of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., at its monthly meeting held at its South Road Office, Poughkeepsie, today declared a dividend of 15 cents per share on its common stock, payable February 1, 1951, to stockholders of record January 10, 1951.

Dean Says Russian . . .

suggested that marine strength be boosted to twice the 18 squadrons and two full-war strength divisions, currently planned.

5. Navy spokesmen expressed confidence that "we have sufficient strength" to handle any Russian submarine action which might be launched off Korea.

6. Military leaders testified that defense costs already nearing $45,000,000,000 for the fiscal year ending next June 30 may continue near that rate for some years in the future.

The Senate committee published the testimony on the emergeny defense measure after deleting many sections for military security.

Discussion of Russian atomic development was started by Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) He noted that some persons recently had questioned Mr. Truman's announcement in September, 1949 that the Russians had staged an atomic explosion.

Dean assured Knowland that all five of the atomic commissioners as well as competent scientists were certain that the explosion had occurred. Then he continued:

"As to the intensity of the Russian effort in the field of atomic energy, our information is quite reliable that it is an intensive effort and that they have available to them facilities—and undemocratic methods of using those facilities—which make it clear to the people of this country that their program is not leisurely."

Dewey Will . . .

had not heard of the controversy before, but "it sounds as though the New York state officials are objecting to conditions which Congress wrote into the Social Security Law."

Furthermore, Ewing said, "it seems to me it would have been better for Governor Dewey or the appropriate state official to take this matter up with me before rushing to the newspapers."

Officials Confer

Officials of the State Social Welfare Department reported they had conferred with federal officials, without reaching a solution.

Commissioner Lansdale said Ewing presumably had acted under the broad power that state plans must "provide such methods of administration * * * as are found by the administrator to be necessary for the proper and efficient operation of the plan."

Dewey asserted in his telegram: "People in need should not be treated as mere numbers or as members of a herd. The change sought here is neither necessary nor desirable. In New York state, persons receiving welfare assistance are treated as citizens of the community in which they live, not as a statewide class apart."

Emergency Bills

new price control program on autos is expected.

Wilson was called back to the capitol today (10 a. m. E.S.T.) for his views regarding President Truman's request for emergency power to reorganize federal agencies.

Members of the Senate Expenditures Committee said they want from Wilson some specific information as to just what reorganization the administration is planning.

The Senate yesterday passed a bill providing for the contract authority. This was one of the measures which got bogged down in the House by the home-for-Christmas rush. The House bill also would grant authority to reorganize government agencies.

Listing Is Available

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—A partial listing by locations of $320,164,000 of army public works projects for which immediate funds are asked became available today. The list was sent to the Senate in support of the army's request for emergency money in a $20,000,000,000 appropriation bill. The army list includes: New York—Fort Jay, Governor's Island, $153,000; West Point, $1,057,400; Schnectady General Depot, $1,206,100; Long Island City, Signal Corps Photographic Center, $250,000.

Stalin Peace Prizes

because this has been a big Communist year for propaganda linking the name of Stalin with the word peace.

This has been the big year of the Stockholm peace appeal, the name the Communists give to a petition calling for outlawing atomic weapons on their own terms. It was the year of peace Congresses such as that recently at Warsaw, painting Stalin as the great defender of peace in a wicked world. It was the dominant Soviet theme in the United Nations.

Growl About 'War'

Lately, however, the Soviet propaganda organs have been growling the word "war" in ominous tones. The might of Soviet arms has been stressed. There have been not-so-veiled threats against the west.

One guess about the Stalin peace prizes is this:

The Politburo may have held up the peace awards until a time when the Russians feel they might get the best propaganda value out of them. They might be used as the springboard for a new Soviet blast—possibly a new peace offensive to lull jittery Europe.

Possibly some spectacular display is planned to go with the announcement to dramatize the Soviet propaganda.

This current mystery about the perennial enigma of the Kremlin ranks with that of last March, when the question was: "What happened to Stalin's election eve speech?"

Will Make Own Speech

It has been fully expected that Stalin, standing for unanimous re-election to the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) would, along with the rest of the top Soviet brass, make the customary election eve speech in his own behalf.

Stalin did not even make an appearance at the Bolshoi Theatre election eve, where he had made a speech previous to the 1946 national election. Foreigners, who had awaited what he had to say with eager interest, were astonished. No reason for the non-appearance of the Soviet dictator even got through the censorship curtain.

At the time sources outside the Soviet Union, after reading through the speeches of the other Politburo members, concluded that there must be widespread fear of general war in Moscow. Each Politburo member played heavily on the theme of world peace and the so-called Soviet peace policy.

Recent indications from the Moscow press indicated that not only the people, but the leaders themselves now are thinking in terms of the possibility of general war in the not too distant future.

It looks as if the Kremlin is planning a big blast for the near future.

More Air Bases

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The air force will reopen 13 more bases as part of its program to expand to a 68-wing air force. All the bases are scheduled to be in operation within 12 months.

Hospital to Hold Annual Meeting, Elect New Trustees

John D. Shoonmaker, president of the Board of Trustees of Kingston Hospital, announced at a recent meeting of the board that the annual meeting of The Kingston Hospital Association will be held Jan. 16, at 4 p. m. in the nurses' home.

Three-year terms of four members of the Board of Trustees have expired, and a nominating committee appointed by a majority of the members of the board is to submit candidates for election at the January meeting.

The board announced that there are two types of membership in the association; one in which a contribution of $25 qualifies the donor to a life membership, and the other in which $5 is for a membership of a year. Contributions may be given through the building fund subscription book or directly to the hospital.

In announcing the date of the Jan. 16 meeting President Schoonmaker referred to the section of the by-laws which states: "The control of the affairs of the corporation shall be vested in a board of 12 trustees, elected by the members of the corporations for a term of three years. The terms of four of the members shall expire each year."

Disaster Is Averted

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Dec. 22 — D. H. Dunbar, chairman of the Town of Esopus in the recent drive for the Kingston Hospital Fund, has announced that to date 397 subscriptions have been pledged to the amount of $4,346 for the township. Persons who were not contacted in the Town of Esopus may contribute to the fund by calling 1787.

The Ulster Park-Port Ewen W.C.T.U. will hold the regular meeting and Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Otis Terwilliger Wednesday, Dec. 27, at 2 p. m. Each one is requested to bring a gift for exchange. The word for roll call is peace.

Mrs. D. Bigler who has been spending a few days at the home of her sister, Miss Daisy Ellsworth has returned to her home in West New York, N. J.

Members of Esopus Council, 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, celebrated their 53rd anniversary by attending a banquet at the Kirkland Hotel in Kingston this week. Tables were decorated with cut flowers and lighted Christmas candles. Favors were in keeping with the holiday season. After dinner members met with Katherine A. Schleede, former state associate councilor, at her home in Kingston. After a short business meeting, the annual Christmas party with exchange of gifts was held. Games were played and refreshments served by the hostess who was assisted by her daughter, Miss Ethel Schleede. An anniversary poem was read by Mrs. Schleede. Those attending were Mrs. Mary E. ## Acheson Scheduled

Former President Herbert Hoover in his New York speech Wednesday night.

Mr. Truman, in yesterday's statement, expressed confidence that "the free states of Europe mean business about setting up our common defense system."

The roadrunner bird of the southwest is protected by federal law.

Seeks to Adopt Brothers and Sisters

Joseph Hernandez, (center), 23, former GI, is surrounded by his sisters and brothers whom he is seeking to adopt. As their parents are dead he wants to have the children declared wholly dependent on him so that if he enters the service again they will be entitled to $125 a month in family allowances. Sisters, left to right, are Pearl, 17, and Irma, 15. Brothers, left to right, are Roger, 11, and Hector, 13. (AP Wirephoto).

Red China's . . .

South Korean capital. The other runs northwest of Seoul to Pyongyang, Korean Red capital.

Heavy Traffic Noted

Noting unmistakably heavy traffic behind enemy lines and continued probing thrusts, MacArthur observed:

"This is normally the initial phase of an impending attack."

In northeast Korea, American rapid-fire rocked ships moved close inshore at Hungnam Thursday and joined other warships, planes and field artillery in laying a fiery shield from close range around the beachhead.

Use of the rocket ships in defense of the Hungnam perimeter for the first time indicated that the Reds are closing in.

The flat trajectory and comcomparatively short range of the rocket ships indicated the Reds were being held at bay closer to the beachhead.

No description of the vessels was given, but rocket-firing craft were used to support the allied landings at Inchon on the west coast in September. They were used also late in World War 2.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton reported small but persistent Red efforts to penetrate the northern flank of the perimeter were beaten off by American doughboys early Friday. Intense allied firepower still thwarted Red attempts to build up sizable assault forces.

Replace Chinese

Chinese appeared to have been replaced by North Koreans in the Hungnam sector.

MacArthur's late Friday war summary said it was possible that the Chinese had moved southwest across the peninsula and into action near the 38th Parallel above Seoul.

The summary said the use of pack horses and camels northeast of Chunchon "suggests that the attackers were Chinese Communist forces."

Thus far, however, no Chinese troops have been reported identified positively south of Parallel 38.

MacArthur's summary said enemy units in the Ichon-Kumhwa-Hwachon and Yonchon area, almost in the dead center of the peninsula, have been probing United Nations lines there for eight days. Most thrusts have been aimed at feeling out the U.N. strength astride the three main arteries leading south to tense Seoul.

The general said signs of an offensive were seen in the increasing activity in the vicinity of Hwachon, north of Chunchon, and the positions of enemy forces totalling possibly three corps as a forward echelon. That is a potential of 10 to 12 divisions, perhaps 80,000 to 100,000 men.

See Life Around Plane

Clark Air Force Base, Philippines, Dec. 22 (AP)—Three persons were seen moving today around the wreckage of a U. S. military C-54 transport that crashed Tuesday high on 9,234-foot Mount Tabayoc with 37 persons aboard. Air observers said there was a remote possibility they may be survivors of the crash but cautioned they more likely are natives. Air force officials earlier said all 37 in the plane were presumed dead. A 15-man team of trained mountain climbers guided by tribesmen was trudging up the 9,234-foot mountain.

Warmer in Midwest

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP)—Today was the first day of the winter season and the warmest in the chilled midwest in weeks. Temperatures moderated over the eastern half of the country but they still were a little on the chilly side. The cold air which hit the midwest earlier in the week had spread to the Atlantic coast. There were no zero readings over the north central region. Fair and mild weather continued over most of the western half of the country except for showers in western Washington.

Frangello Injured

Michael Frangello, 30, of R.D. Saugerties suffered lacerations to the face Thursday night when his automobile swerved off the Flatbush road two miles north of Kingston, rolled down an embankment and overturned, according to a report made to state police at Lake Katrine. Frangello was taken to Kingston Hospital. He told troopers his car left the road when he was blinded by the headlights of an unknown on-coming vehicle about 8 p. m.

Local Death Record

Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie Van Slyke Owen, who died suddenly today at her residence, "Rockhurst," on Marius street, will be held on Saturday at 2:30 p. m. from the First Dutch Reformed Church. Place of burial will be announced later. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Stuart Huckins of Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Mrs. Rae H. De Forest, wife of Charles De Forest of 20 East St. James street, died this morning. The funeral will be held from the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. Burial will be in the Woodstock Cemetery. Besides her husband, she is survived by two grandchildren.

Mrs. Kate Heisner of 545 Abeel street died late Thursday afternoon following a lengthy illness. She was the widow of Fred Heisner. She is survived by a sister, Miss Mary E. Schick; and several nieces and nephews. She was born in Wilbur and resided at 545 Abeel street all her life. She was a member of the Trinity Lutheran Church since childhood. The funeral will be held from the late home Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Burial will take place in the family plot in Montrepose Cemetery. Friends may call at the residence at any time.

The funeral of Frank T. Pinkman who died Tuesday at his residence, 72 Wiltwyck avenue, was held from the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, at 9:30 a. m., thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 10 a. m. today a solemn requiem high Mass was offered. The celebrant at the Mass was the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Stephen P. Connelly, pastor; the Rev. John D. Simmons, assistant pastor, was deacon and the Rev. James B. Keating, second assistant pastor, was sub-deacon. Father Keating performed the last rites at St. Mary's Cemetery. Thursday night Monsignor Connelly and Father Simmons recited the Rosary at the funeral parlors at 8 o'clock. At 8:30, members of Golden Rule Locomotive Engineers Lodge, 184, of which Mr. Pinkman was the founder and first chairman, held ritualistic services. Bearers were Oliver Dunbar, David Roach, Gus Kogel, Thomas Quest, S. Cable and Edward Schoonmaker.

Long Negotiations

contribution or the extent of future German independence.

The committees, after their laborious and complicated discussions, have to report back to the Allied High Commission. Further talks with the chancellor will follow. Results of negotiations finally go to the Big Three foreign ministers for consideration.

Competent observers consider Adenauer is pleased with allied willingness to listen to his pleas for German equality.

He also reportedly has told the high commissioners he considers the appointment of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as convincing evidence the allies are really earnest in their endeavor to create an adequate defense for western Europe.

Lawyers Nominate

Poughkeepsie, Dec. 22—John B. Van DeWater has been nominated as president of the Dutchess County Bar Association for 1951. Election will be held in the court house on January 13. William B. Duggan has been nominated for first vice president and Joseph A. McCabe for second vice president.

Tug Is Sought

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—The coast guard swept the eastern waters of Lake Erie for the fourth straight day today in an effort to find some trace of the missing tug Sachem. The tug, with 12 men aboard, left Buffalo for Dunkirk Monday morning and disappeared completely.

Mrs. Scott Free

Los Angeles, Dec. 22 (AP)—Mrs. Elaine Scott is free to marry writer John Steinbeck Sunday in New York. She obtained her final divorce decree yesterday from actor Zachary Scott. She had won the interlocutory decree Dec. 1, 1949.

About the Folks

Mrs. Nathan L. Feldman, 110 Wall street, who underwent an operation recently at the Kingston hospital, is convalescing at her home.

Financial and Commercial

By WILLIAM D. HORGAN

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Lively demand for auto stocks highlighted today's market.

Gains ranged to around $1 a share following overnight news that General Motors Corp. had accepted the government's price rollback order. The motor company had withdrawn its cars from the market pending an appeal of the order which was denied.

Rail issues were sensitive to only modest offerings and a couple fell back more than $1 a share. Traders evidently did not take too kindly to settlement of a 22-month wage dispute in the industry.

The balance of the market fiddled along without getting far one way or another. Gains and losses, none very large, were pretty evenly distributed.

Business continued at an unusually high level, at a rate close to yesterday's 3,000,000 shares or so.

Hanging back were Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Union Pacific, N. Y. Central, Woolworth, International Harvester, International Nickel, General Electric, and Johns-Manville.

Railroad issues improved a bit in the bond market. U. S. Governments held steady in over-the-counter dealings.

Boosted in the curb were Pancoastal Oil, Raytheon Mfg., Solar Aircraft, Colonial Airlines, Detroit Gray Iron, Louisiana Land, Hollinger Gold, Glen Alden Coal, and Cities Service.

Lone Star Gas slipped, with Fansteel Metallurgical, Kaiser-Frazer, and Northrop Aircraft.

Guralnick Given Into Custody of Ulster's Sheriff

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Morris Guralnick, termed by the FBI "one of the 10 most wanted criminals in the country" before his capture last week, was turned over to New York state authorities today.

The short, wiry, 35-year-old Guralnick had been in custody of federal officials since his arrest last Friday in Madison, Wis.

He had been the object of a nationwide hunt since July 11, 1948, when he and three other prisoners broke out of the Ulster County Jail at Kingston, N. Y. The other two were recaptured shortly after the break.

Arraigned in Federal Court today as a fugitive, Guralnick chuckled when Assistant U. S. Attorney Florence Perlow Shientag described him as a "dangerous character."

Court-appointed defense attorney Henry Chapman reported Guralnick had a blackened eye and 15 or 20 bruises which the prisoner said police gave him at the time of his arrest. The government attorney said this happened because Guralnick "is usually armed, has an excitable temperament and put up a fight."

Guralnick cut in, "I've never been violent in my life."

The court turned the prisoner over to George C. Smith, sheriff of Ulster county, where Guralnick was in jail on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon at the time of his escape.

His capture in Wisconsin came after a student spotted him as one of the "10 most wanted criminals" pictured in a magazine.

Man Is Injured

John Rosa, R.D., Kingston suffered a lip laceration in an automobile mishap at Broadway and Liberty street early today. The police report at 3.32 a. m., today by Officer Raymond Wells said Rosa was driving north on Broadway. The other vehicles involved were a truck owned by Floyd Christian, R.D., Ghent, and an unknown car. Both were parked on Broadway, the report said.

17 Persons Injured

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren reported 17 persons injured in 10 city traffic mihaps during November in submitting his monthly report to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday. Of these nine involved motor vehicles alone and one involved a motor vehicle and bicycle. The report showed 41 arrests for the month.

Central Hudson Dividend

The board of directors of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., at its monthly meeting held at its South Road Office, Poughkeepsie, today declared a dividend of 15 cents per share on its common stock, payable February 1, 1951, to stockholders of record January 10, 1951.

Dean Says Russian

suggested that marine strength be boosted to twice the 18 squadrons and two full-war strength divisions, currently planned.

5. Navy spokesmen expressed confidence that "we have sufficient strength" to handle any Russian submarine action which might be launched off Korea.

6. Military leaders testified that defense costs already nearing $45,000,000,000 for the fiscal year ending next June 30 may continue near that rate for some years in the future.

The Senate committee published the testimony on the emergeny defense measure after deleting many sections for military security.

Discussion of Russian atomic development was started by Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) He noted that some persons recently had questioned Mr. Truman's announcement in September, 1949 that the Russians had staged an atomic explosion.

Dean assured Knowland that all five of the atomic commissioners as well as competent scientists were certain that the explosion had occurred. Then he continued:

"As to the intensity of the Russian effort in the field of atomic energy, our information is quite reliable that it is an intensive effort and that they have available to them facilities—and undemocratic methods of using those facilities—which make it clear to the people of this country that their program is not leisurely."

Dewey Will . . .

had not heard of the controversy before, but "it sounds as though the New York state officials are objecting to conditions which Congress wrote into the Social Security Law."

Furthermore, Ewing said, "it seems to me it would have been better for Governor Dewey or the appropriate state official to take this matter up with me before rushing to the newspapers."

Officials Confer

Officials of the State Social Welfare Department reported they had conferred with federal officials, without reaching a solution.

Commissioner Lansdale said Ewing presumably had acted under the broad power that state plans must "provide such methods of administration * * * as are found by the administrator to be necessary for the proper and efficient operation of the plan."

Dewey asserted in his telegram: "People in need should not be treated as mere numbers or as members of a herd. The change sought here is neither necessary nor desirable. In New York state, persons receiving welfare assistance are treated as citizens of the community in which they live, not as a statewide class apart."

Emergency Bills

new price control program on autos is expected.

Wilson was called back to the capitol today (10 a. m. E.S.T.) for his views regarding President Truman's request for emergency power to reorganize federal agencies.

Members of the Senate Expenditures Committee said they want from Wilson some specific information as to just what reorganization the administration is planning.

The Senate yesterday passed a bill providing for the contract authority. This was one of the measures which got bogged down in the House by the home-for-Christmas rush. The House bill also would grant authority to reorganize government agencies.

Listing Is Available

Washington, Dec. 21 (AP)—A partial listing by locations of $320,164,000 of army public works projects for which immediate funds are asked became available today. The list was sent to the Senate in support of the army's request for emergency money in a $20,000,000,000 appropriation bill. The army list includes: New York—Fort Jay, Governor's Island, $153,000; West Point, $1,057,400; Schnectady General Depot, $1,206,100; Long Island City, Signal Corps Photographic Center, $250,000.

Stalin Peace Prizes

because this has been a big Communist year for propaganda linking the name of Stalin with the word peace.

This has been the big year of the Stockholm peace appeal, the name the Communists give to a petition calling for outlawing atomic weapons on their own terms. It was the year of peace Congresses such as that recently at Warsaw, painting Stalin as the great defender of peace in a wicked world. It was the dominant Soviet theme in the United Nations.

Growl About 'War'

Lately, however, the Soviet propaganda organs have been growling the word "war" in ominous tones. The might of Soviet arms has been stressed. There have been not-so-veiled threats against the west.

One guess about the Stalin peace prizes is this:

The Politburo may have held up the peace awards until a time when the Russians feel they might get the best propaganda value out of them. They might be used as the springboard for a new Soviet blast—possibly a new peace offensive to lull jittery Europe.

Possibly some spectacular display is planned to go with the announcement to dramatize the Soviet propaganda.

This current mystery about the perennial enigma of the Kremlin ranks with that of last March, when the question was: "What happened to Stalin's election eve speech?"

Will Make Own Speech

It has been fully expected that Stalin, standing for unanimous re-election to the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) would, along with the rest of the top Soviet brass, make the customary election eve speech in his own behalf.

Stalin did not even make an appearance at the Bolshoi Theatre election eve, where he had made a speech previous to the 1946 national election. Foreigners, who had awaited what he had to say with eager interest, were astonished. No reason for the non-appearance of the Soviet dictator even got through the censorship curtain.

At the time sources outside the Soviet Union, after reading through the speeches of the other Politburo members, concluded that there must be widespread fear of general war in Moscow. Each Politburo member played heavily on the theme of world peace and the so-called Soviet peace policy.

Recent indications from the Moscow press indicated that not only the people, but the leaders themselves now are thinking in terms of the possibility of general war in the not too distant future.

It looks as if the Kremlin is planning a big blast for the near future.

More Air Bases

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The air force will reopen 13 more bases as part of its program to expand to a 68-wing air force. All the bases are scheduled to be in operation within 12 months.

Find Woman's Body

Hungnam Beachhead, Northeast Korea, Dec. 21 (AP) (Delayed) —A uniformed North Korean woman who may have been a Communist war correspondent was found dead on the beachhead front Thursday. Her body was among a group of North Koreans killed during a pre-dawn infiltration attempt. A U. S. Third Division officer said she was carrying a big German-made portrait type camera. She wore a cut-down American fatigue uniform with North Korean Army buttons. A big "R" was stitched on one sleeve. On the other was the letter "K." There were no identification papers or tags.

Need Water Supply

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 21 (AP)—Immediate expansion of North Jersey's water supply to provide 100,000,000 gallons more daily was urged yesterday by the State Water Policy and Supply Council.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL — By CHARLES DICKENS

Scrooge wished everyone he saw a "merry Christmas," and topped things off by going to church.

Then he went to his nephew Fred's house. "It's I. Your Uncle Scrooge. I have come to dinner. Will you let me in, Fred?"

It was a wonderful party, wonderful games, wonderful unanimity, won-der-ful happiness!

Dingeldey Is Elected Ulster Hose President

Edward F. Dingeldey was elected president of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5, Inc., at the recent election of officers.

Others named were Paul Stevenson, vice-president; Daniel H. Morehouse, secretary; James M. Krom, financial secretary; Gerald Woodvine, treasurer.

Also elected were Joseph Dyer, fire chief; Martin Peterson, assistant fire chief; William Norton, captain; John Offerman, first lieutenant; Edward Thomas, second lieutenant; Ernest Petersen, third lieutenant; Roger Boice, Donald Reed and Emil Wieland, wardens.

Warns Peiping

Singapore, Dec. 22 (AP)—Britain's top official in Southeast Asia, departing notably from the gentle tenor of previous official British utterances on Chinese communism, warned Peiping's Reds last night that the free world "refuses to be dictated to by Communists from anywhere." Commissioner General Malcolm MacDonald intimated in a radio address that his government's patience in the Far East may be reaching an end. Britain has maintained a friendly attitude toward Red China's government, which she recognizes. At stake are huge British investments inside China and her trade center colony of Hong Kong on the China coast.

Low Bid on Sampson

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—A bid of $2,677,721 apparently is the lowest submitted for transforming the former Sampson Naval Training Station into an air force base. The bid, submitted jointly by the Five Boro Construction Co. and Maylan Plumbing Co., of New York, was among 14 opened yesterday. The army district engineer's office said it was the apparent low.

Families Arrive

Taipei, Formosa, Dec. 22 (AP)—The families of servicemen attached to the U. S. embassy here arrived yesterday to make their homes in Formosa. They included the wife and child of Maj. Roy Reed Van Dusen, Jr., White Plains, N. Y.

Would Begin Immunizing

South Bound Brook, N. J., Dec. 22 (AP)—A move is on in this small town—3,000 population—to immunize all residents against diseases which might result if an atom bomb were dropped. The board of health worked on the plan last night at the suggestion of Dr. Harold N. Wender, who said he believed the town—located in central New Jersey—would be the first in the nation to take the step. Wender said two types of serum will be given free to volunteers. He estimated that two-thirds of the town will take advantage of the offer.

European Wild Boar

The young of the European wild boar are marked with stripes running lengthwise along the body and of alternate dark and light tone.

Hits Milk Price Hike

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Investigations Commissioner James H. Sheils said yesterday a new milk price rise here by major distributors is "shocking." Sheils said the hike shows a "shocking disregard of the pleas of the President of the U. S. and of the Economic Stabilization Agency to hold the line on prices." An increase of a half cent a quart next Thursday in New York city, Long Island and Westchester county was announced yesterday by Borden and Sheffield. Sheils said milk prices have risen as much as five and a half cents a quart in six months. He said that up to two cents of the increase has "gone into the pockets of the companies."

Florida has more than 7,000,000 acres of water.

SHANDAKEN

Shandaken, Dec. 22—Miss Kate Gossoo is visiting her brother at Schuyler Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Townsend and son, Edward and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smithers attended the funeral of Mrs. Ella Cummings in Pine Hill Saturday.

Mrs. Owen Gossoo spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Townsend in Kingston.

Mrs. Nettie Brimmer of Walton was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Osterhoudt.

There will be a watch night service at the Methodist Church Sunday, Dec. 31, at 9:30 p. m. Refreshments will be served after the service.

The Sunday school held its annual Christmas tree program Tuesday night at the church.

Mrs. Edna Andrews, teacher in the Pine Hill school, is spending the winter months with Mrs. Theron Townsend.

Reds Wouldn't Talk

Plymouth, England, Dec. 22 (AP) —Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky arrived here today on the French liner Liberte en route home from the United Nations Assembly meeting in New York. Neither Vishinsky nor members of his party of 14 would talk to reporters during the vessel's one-hour stop here. A guard with a revolver bulging from one pocket guarded Vishinsky's luxury suite.

All the things you want-
IN THE NEWEST NEW CAR FOR '51!

It's good to have all the things you want in a motor car, and to have them at lower cost than they can possibly be found anywhere else.

That's exactly what you'll have when you buy a new Chevrolet.

You'll own the newest new car for '51 . . . the car that is refreshingly new in many details of its styling, inside and out . . . with that longer, lower, wider "luxury look" which stamps it as the most beautiful car in its field.

You'll own the only car that offers you your choice of the finest, time-proved no-shift driving or standard driving,* at lowest cost.

CHEVROLET

NEW! AMERICAN BEAUTY DESIGN
Brilliant new styling . . . featuring entirely new grille, parking lights, fender moldings and rear-end design . . . imparting that longer, lower, wider, big-car look which sets Chevrolet above and apart from all other motor cars in its field.

NEW! AMERICA-PREFERRED BODIES BY FISHER
With new and even more strikingly beautiful lines, contours and colors . . . with extra sturdy Fisher Unisteel construction . . . Curved Windshield and Panoramic Visibility . . . the smartest, safest, most comfortable edition of Chevrolet's America-Preferred Bodies by Fisher.

NEW! MODERN-MODE INTERIORS
With upholstery and appointments of outstanding quality, in beautiful two-tone color harmonies . . . with an even more attractive steering wheel embodying a new full-circle horn ring (in De Luxe models) . . . and with extra generous head, leg and elbow room for driver and all passengers.

NEW! MORE POWERFUL JUMBO-DRUM BRAKES
(with Dubl-Life rivetless brake linings)
Largest brakes in the entire low-price field . . . extra-safe, extra-smooth, extra-durable . . . with both brake shoes on each wheel self-energizing for forward and reverse operation of car . . . providing maximum stopping-power with up to 25% less driver effort.

NEW! SAFETY-SIGHT INSTRUMENT PANEL
Safer, more convenient, more efficient . . . having an overhanging upper crown to eliminate reflections in windshield from instrument lights, and lower edge of panel recessed to provide a safe, convenient location for control knobs . . . with plain, easy-to-read instruments in two large clusters directly in front of driver.

NEW! IMPROVED CENTER-POINT STEERING
(and Center-Point Design)
Making steering even easier at low speeds and while parking . . . just as Chevrolet's famous Unitized Knee-Action Gliding Ride is comfortable beyond comparison in its price range . . . additional reasons why more people buy Chevrolets than any other car.

MT. MARION

Mt. Marion, Dec. 22 — Lloyd Tonnesen of the U. S. Transport Service has been spending several days at his home here.

A special service will be held Christmas Eve in the church at 7:30. All are invited.

Peter Becht of Elmhurst, L. I., visited Mr. and Mrs. William Myer Wednesday.

The Sunday school will hold its Christmas entertainment in the church Wednesday night, Dec. 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Masfield spent several days in New York this week.

Joseph Slater, formerly of Mt. Marion, died in San Diego, Calif., last week.

Justin Pearson of Syracuse University is spending the Christmas vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pearson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Osterhoudt and Miss Sara Osterhoudt spent Tuesday in Albany.

Burial services for Munroe Sutton of Kingston took place on Wednesday in the Mt. Marion Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Ostrander and family will spend Christmas with her parents in New Hampshire.

Find Woman's Body

Hungnam Beachhead, Northeast Korea, Dec. 21 (AP) (Delayed)—A uniformed North Korean woman who may have been a Communist war correspondent was found dead on the beachhead front Thursday. Her body was among a group of North Koreans killed during a pre-dawn infiltration attempt. A U. S. Third Division officer said she was carrying a big German-made portrait type camera. She wore a cut-down American fatigue uniform with North Korean Army buttons. A big "R" was stitched on one sleeve. On the other was the letter "K." There were no identification papers or tags.

Need Water Supply

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 21 (AP)—Immediate expansion of North Jersey's water supply to provide 100,000,000 gallons more daily was urged yesterday by the State Water Policy and Supply Council.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL — By CHARLES DICKENS

Dingeldey Is Elected Ulster Hose President

Edward F. Dingeldey was elected president of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5, Inc., at the recent election of officers.

Others named were Paul Stevenson, vice-president; Daniel H. Morehouse, secretary; James M. Krom, financial secretary; Gerald Woodvine, treasurer.

Warns Peiping

Singapore, Dec. 22 (AP)—Britain's top official in Southeast Asia, departing notably from the gentle tenor of previous official British utterances on Chinese communism, warned Peiping's Reds last night that the free world "refuses to be dictated to by Communists from anywhere." Commissioner General Malcolm MacDonald intimated in a radio address that his government's patience in the Far East may be reaching an end. Britain has maintained a friendly attitude toward Red China's government, which she recognizes. At stake are huge British investments inside China and her trade center colony of Hong Kong on the China coast.

Low Bid on Sampson

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—A bid of $2,677,721 apparently is the lowest submitted for transforming the former Sampson Naval Training Station into an air force base. The bid, submitted jointly by the Five Boro Construction Co. and Maylan Plumbing Co., of New York, was among 14 opened yesterday. The army district engineer's office said it was the apparent low.

Families Arrive

To Return to Films

Hollywood, Dec. 22 (AP)—Helen Hayes is set to return to the films after 15 years. Producer Leo McCarey announced yesterday Miss Hayes will star in "My Son John," starting March 1.

Need Deer Skin to Keep Soldiers' Hands Warm

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Game-hunting states are being asked to reopen or extend their deer seasons in order to provide warm gloves for troops in far northern areas, the Tanners Council of America reports.

In a statement yesterday, the council said "the army quartermaster corps has found that only gloves made from native deerskin give combat troops protection and freedom of action under battle in Arctic climates."

Meanwhile at Gloversville, N. Y., Fred A. Rulison, president of the Fulton County Tanners Association, said the army foresees a shortage of 1,500,000 feet of horsehide and 2,000,000 feet of deerskin by July 1. Total needs by July 1 were put at 6,000,000 feet of horsehide and 3,000,000 feet of deerskin.

Rulison said the estimates were made at a quartermaster corps conference in Chicago, from which he returned Wednesday.

Water Supply Answer

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Department of Interior exploded an old popular legend that great underwater reservoirs on Long Island, New York, are fed by underground rivers from Connecticut. The department said the U. S. Geological survey has just made an investigation which shows that Long Island's sole source of water is the rain or snow that falls upon the island's surface. The report said that if there was an underground flow it would have to come under Long Island Sound and there is no evidence that this occurs.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By JACK MACBETH
(For Hal Boyle)

With United Nations Forces, Korea (AP)—A young Korean clergyman clenched his fists, said something in his native tongue and then added firmly in English:

"If the United Nations only would give us the arms we will fight and keep on fighting to the end—even me."

David Chung, who received his bachelor of divinity degree from the University of Toronto in 1949, is pastor of the Chodong Presbyterian Church in Seoul. The church building was destroyed during the battle for Seoul.

Interviewed during a visit to Canadian troops in South Korea, Chung said 24 of 80 Presbyterian clergymen in Seoul had been murdered by the Communists.

He added he was one of some 300 Christian leaders who have fled southward from the Seoul area as well as from North Korea.

Poor Equipment

Chung, whose congregation consisted mostly of refugees from the Canadian mission area of northwest Korea, blamed early South Korean military reversals on insufficient arms.

"When the Communists came, we had no tanks, no bazookas—just poor equipment," he said.

Discussing South Korean armament, the clergyman repeated several times and with obvious feeling: "If we only had the arms!"

In the early days of the Red occupation of Seoul, Chung said, Christians were allowed to conduct services and move about freely. "But on Aug. 23 they began to arrest us," he related. "They got one of my neighbors and that is when I decided to hide at a friend's house. I stayed there until the Americans came."

Two weeks before the North Koreans launched their invasion, Chung said, all but a few of the Christian leaders in North Korea were arrested by the government police for "security reasons" and many were never seen again.

Asked if any Christians were known to hold responsible positions in the North Korean government, Chung replied: "Oh, yes. Premier Kim Il Sung's secretary is a Presbyterian clergyman. He had a nice church in Pyongyang."

Christian Influence Felt

Referring to Korea before World War 2 as "a hermit nation," Chung said the country's aloofness and isolationism retarded its acquisition of western skills and culture as well as the progress of Christianity.

"Although only three per cent of the Korean population is Christian, he said, "the Christian influence is widely felt. Before this war started we were gaining strength rapidly. Our churches were overcrowded."

Expressing confidence in the ultimate victory, the Korean minister declared solemnly:

"I had expected the Korean Communists were Korean and human. I have found they were neither Korean nor human."

The "bang-bang" technique is a great favorite with Hard Luck Joe. He bangs down all his top cards in the hope that something will become established. Something usually does—for the opponents. Today's hand shows just how Joe uses this technique.

West opened the jack of spades, and Joe, playing the South hand, won with the queen. Joe could count eight tricks in top cards and decided that he could make the ninth trick if either clubs or diamonds broke. He therefore took the ace and king of clubs and gave up a club trick.

West took the third round of clubs and quite properly refused to ruff his other established club. Instead he returned the ten of spades.

Joe won with the ace of spades and saw that he could no longer establish dummy's clubs. Therefore he went after the diamonds, banging down the ace and king and then leading a third round of the suit.

East gratefully took two diamond tricks and returned a heart. That was the end of poor Joe, since he had already lost three tricks and was bound to lose a heart and a club to West.

Joe could have made his contract if he had given up the first round of clubs. Later on he could take the ace and king of clubs and give up a second club trick to West. The king of spades would remain in dummy to cash the last club.

It could do no harm to lose the first club trick, since one club had to be given up in any case. The advantage of doing so was that South could then bring in a low card club trick even if the suit broke 4-2.

Veterans Join Hunt For Philly 'Mad Sniper'

Philadelphia, Dec. 22 (AP) — Aroused war veterans have joined forces with police in a rapidly widening search for the city's "mad" and mysterious sniper.

Some 50 men of the Veterans of Foreign Wars last night patrolled streets and alleys or stood watch in places which might serve the purposes of a sharpshooter. Most of them were paired with off-duty policemen and firemen. Neither veterans nor firemen were armed.

While the official hand thus was strengthened, the Philadelphia Inquirer offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the elusive marksman sought for the killing of a woman and for several other shootings. Mrs. Claire Cohen, 28-year-old mother of two, was slain in her parents' home Saturday night.

Meet on Tax Measure

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—A Senate-House Conference Committee strove today for quick agreement on legislation boosting America's tax load to the highest level in history. The compromise measure is expected to increase corporation taxes by more than $3,000,000,000 including a super levy up to 75 or 77 per cent on excess business profits. Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee told newsmen he hoped the compromise can be reached in time for both the Senate and the House to approve it and send it to President Truman by nightfall. But other tax legislation managers said final action may be delayed until just before the new Congress convenes Jan. 3.

St. Colman's Church Scene of Nuptials For Clara Carpino

Miss Clara Carpino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carpino of East Kingston, became the bride of Alexander Kish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Kish, Jr., of Ulster Landing, at St. Colman's Church, East Kingston, December 10. The Rev. Edmond V. Radford performed the ceremony in the candle decorated church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white slipper satin gown with long sleeves, an off-shoulder effect, and a Bertha of Chantilly lace. The gown was cut with lace inserts at each side, and matching lace circled the train. She wore a lace trimmed fingertip veil caught to a high tiara of orange blossoms.

Mrs. Stanley Gardeski of East Kingston was matron of honor. She was dressed in a fuschia satin gown cut with cap sleeves, a V neckline, and a Peter Pan collar. The dress had lace insertions, and she wore matching mitts and a heart shaped hat made of lace and satin. Mrs. Gardeski carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The bride's other attendants were Joan Snyder of this city, Lynda Sulko and Loretta LaRocca, both of East Kingston. All three were dressed in identical gowns of peacock blue, fashioned with V necklines and lace shoulder inserts studded with rhinestones. They wore crown shaped lace hats studded with rhinestones, and carried bouquets of pink roses.

William Dexter of East Kingston was best man. Ushers were Thomas Carpino, of East Kingston, brother of the bride; Joseph Kish of Ulster Landing, brother of the groom; and Stanley Gardeski of East Kingston.

A reception for 300 guests was held after the ceremony at White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue.

On their wedding trip the couple will visit New York, New Jersey and Washington, D. C. For traveling the bride wore a black strapless dress with a matching bolero, black velvet accessories, and a short, rust colored coat.

The couple will make their home in East Kingston.

The date of the annual Christmas dance sponsored by the Junior Group, Wiltwyck Chapter, D.A.R., has been changed from December 29 to December 26. The dance will be held at the Chapter House with music by Ray Randall and his orchestra. Before the dance Mr. and Mrs. George Shivery will entertain the group at their home.

Kingston Knitting Mills Has Holiday Party at the Barn

Dinner and entertainment were enjoyed last night by 300 employes and guests of the Kingston Knitting Mills who gathered at the Barn for their annual Christmas party. Principal speaker of the evening was Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, while Richard McCarthy emceed. Music was furnished by Johnny Michaels and his "Gangbusters."

During the evening a telegram was read to the guests from Mr. and Mrs. Michael Tauker, owners of the Kingston Knitting Mills, who were in California, and could not attend. The group also observed two moments of silence for the late Julius Mandel, Mr. Tauker's partner, and for the late John Mazzuca, an employe.

Kiwanis Club Holds Annual Christmas Party

A total of 84 boys and girls assembled from every neighborhood in the city met at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday noon for a banquet and Christmas party sponsored by the Kingston Kiwanis Club, which over 75 Kiwanians attended.

Following the Star Spangled Banner, and the Salute to the Flag the Rev. Arthur Oudemool said grace, while after the banquet children and Kiwanians sang the old familiar carols under the direction of Howard St. John, with Danny Bittner at the piano. Other events of the afternoon included Fred Van Deusen's display of magic, and the appearance of Santa Claus (Louis Schafer) from the rear of the dining hall. Table places were marked with Christmas candy, and candy canes, while Santa dug deep in his magic sack for toys to be given to each guest. Later, Christmas and comedy movies were shown by Warren A. Russell.

The committee in charge of the Christmas party included Chester A. Baltz and George Silkworth, chairmen; Louis H. Schafer, John McManus, Richard Riseley, Allen Baker, Dr. Julius Gifford, Walter Kidd, Alexander Embree, Jr., Bernard Feeney, Clyde Wonderly, Jr., and Dr. John A. Comstock. Mr. and Mrs. Schafer were responsible for purchasing the gifts, arranging the party, and securing high school girls to wrap and box the candy.

Wash dining room furniture occasionally. Do a light job with suds. Rinse at once and dry well, then apply more polish.

St. Colman's Church Scene of Nuptials For Clara Carpino

Miss Clara Carpino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carpino of East Kingston, became the bride of Alexander Kish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Kish, Jr., of Ulster Landing, at St. Colman's Church, East Kingston, December 10. The Rev. Edmond V. Radford performed the ceremony in the candle decorated church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white slipper satin gown with long sleeves, an off-shoulder effect, and a Bertha of Chantilly lace. The gown was cut with lace inserts at each side, and matching lace circled the train. She wore a lace trimmed fingertip veil caught to a high tiara of orange blossoms.

Mrs. Stanley Gardeski of East Kingston was matron of honor. She was dressed in a fuschia satin gown cut with cap sleeves, a V neckline, and a Peter Pan collar. The dress had lace insertions, and she wore matching mitts and a heart shaped hat made of lace and satin. Mrs. Gardeski carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The bride's other attendants were Joan Snyder of this city, Lynda Sulko and Loretta LaRocca, both of East Kingston. All three were dressed in identical gowns of peacock blue, fashioned with V necklines and lace shoulder inserts studded with rhinestones. They wore crown shaped lace hats studded with rhinestones, and carried bouquets of pink roses.

William Dexter of East Kingston was best man. Ushers were Thomas Carpino, of East Kingston, brother of the bride; Joseph Kish of Ulster Landing, brother of the groom; and Stanley Gardeski of East Kingston.

A reception for 300 guests was held after the ceremony at White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue.

On their wedding trip the couple will visit New York, New Jersey and Washington, D. C. For traveling the bride wore a black strapless dress with a matching bolero, black velvet accessories, and a short, rust colored coat.

The couple will make their home in East Kingston.

The marriage of Miss Lillian M. Gleason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gleason, 237 Mansion street, Poughkeepsie, to William J. Houghtaling, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Houghtaling, 15 Hanratty street, this city, was solemnized during a double ring ceremony December 17 at 2:30 p. m. in St. Mary's Church, Poughkeepsie. The Rev. Robert J. Brennan, assistant pastor of that parish, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of cream colored taffeta embossed in gold. Her hat was a close fitting helmet of gold feathers, and she carried a shower bouquet of talisman roses.

Miss Marilyn Gleason of 237 Mansion street, Poughkeepsie, sister of the bride was maid of honor. Miss Gleason was dressed in a forest green afternoon dress with pink accessories. Her hat was of the same fashion as her sister's, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses.

Pfc. Donald Ross of this city was best man. Ushers were John Gleason, brother of the bride, John Quigley of this city and John Shaughnessy of Poughkeepsie.

Following the ceremony a reception for the immediate families and close friends, was held at the home of the bride's parents.

On their wedding trip the couple will visit New York. The bride wore a suit of "Black Watch" plaid for traveling, with a belted, winter-white coat, a green beret, and black accessories. On their return the couple will make their home at 237 Mansion street, Poughkeepsie.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School, and attended New Paltz State Teachers College. She is employed by the New York Telephone Co., Poughkeepsie.

The groom is a graduate of Kingston High School, and served for two years with the armed services. At present he is enrolled in the junior class, Arnold College, Milford, Conn.

The date on which Spring arrives varies from March 19 to March 21.

Slover-Dunkley Troth Announced

MISS HELEN M. DUNKLEY

Thomas Dunkley of 128 Ward street, Paterson, N. J., announces the engagement of his daughter, Helen Mildred, to William A. Slover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. Slover of 67 Flatbush avenue.

Miss Dunkley is a graduate of Clifton High School, Clifton, N. J., and is now enrolled at the Kingston Hospital School of Nursing.

Mr. Slover was graduated from Kingston High School, and served for three years with the U. S. Navy. At present he is employed with Island Dock, Inc.

Newburgh Academy Meets Blues In Key DUSO Game; Maroon Idle

Goldbacks Are On Home Boards

While Poughkeepsie High invades Newburgh Academy for the first major battle between DUSO basketball contenders tonight, Kingston High will remain idle because of the postponement of its scheduled contest with Fallsburg Central.

The Fallsburg authorities requested the postponement because of a series of civic attractions planned in the Sullivan county town tonight. The game has been re-scheduled for mid-January.

DUSO observers will watch the Poughkeepsie - Newburgh clash with interest. Coach Lanky Masterson's Goldbacks, who won their first DUSO basketball crown in history last season, have reeled off four straight in the 1950-51 campaign.

Poughkeepsie has won two (both at home) and dropped one. The Kallochmen blew their first road test in the DUSO, in that memorable double overtime thriller with Kingston. Since then they handled a good Fallsburg quintet and Beacon on the home boards.

Monticello travels to Middletown to meet the rejuvenated Middies who scored a surprise upset over Liberty on Tuesday and Ellenville faces trouble in Beacon. Port Jervis will be the sacrificial lamb in Liberty where Big Wayne Maurer and company should rebound savagely from their loss to Middletown.

Kingston High will be idle until January 5, when it meets Newburgh Academy at the municipal auditorium.

DUSO STANDING

Tonight's Schedule

Middletown at Monticello.
Poughkeepsie at Newburgh.
Ellenville at Beacon.
Port Jervis at Liberty.

Reject Blues' Protest

Through the iron curtain the DUSO League loves to throw around such incidents, it has been learned that Poughkeepsie High School's protest of its recent double overtime basketball loss to Kingston High has been denied

The protest was rejected after two hours of wrangling Tuesday in Middletown.

Leon Weiss, principal of Fallsburg Central, and DUSO president, said the protest was rejected because the league rules state that the referee shall have complete control of the game and that his ruling shall be final.

In the disputed contest, Referee Joe Palone and Joe Alyward supported timer Jim Tobin's contention that the game had ended eight seconds before a Poughkeepsie player was fouled.

The DUSO League, now in the process of preparing an official "release" for mountain weeklies, periodicals, annuals (and maybe the dailies, too) did not reveal the vote tally.

Hearing Planned On New Track

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—Controversial proposals for establishment of a new harness track, in central New York, will be discussed at a public hearing in Syracuse Jan. 17.

The State Harness Racing Commission set the date yesterday and also approved racing dates for the seven tracks now operating in the state.

The commission will hear pros and cons on the application of the Mid-State Raceway, Inc., for a license to operate a track in Collamer, near Syracuse. Several church, civic and business groups have voiced opposition to the track.

Another group, the Central New York Harness Racing Association has asked permission to operate a track at Vernon in Oneida county.

The 1950 Legislature authorized establishment of an eight track with pari-mutuel betting.

Just a Fan, Says Mack On His 88th Birthday

Philadelphia, Dec. 22 (AP)—"I'm just a fan now," said Connie Mack today as he celebrated his 88th birthday.

This is the first birthday in 67 years that the grand old man of baseball has observed as a spectator. He retired as manager of his beloved Philadelphia Athletics last Oct. 18. He managed the A's for 50 seasons and had been active as player and manager for 67 campaigns.

How is he taking retirement? "I'm so busy that I don't have time to even realize I'm retired," Mack told the usual crowd of press and radio men who visited him in his Shibe Park tower office.

Mail for Connie still pours into the office from over all the world and he replies to every letter.

Ski Trails

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—The State Commerce Department today reported the following ski conditions at 29 centers in New York:

RHUBARB SEED—Wisconsin's Don Gehrmann and Fred Wilt hit the tape at the end of the Wanamaker Mile at Madison Square Garden in January in what appears to be a dead heat. When the first and second-place judges named the G-man, a dispute was touched off that wasn't settled until December. Gehrmann got the medal. Irish John Joe Barry is seen puffing in third.

Musial Passes Mize and Hornsby In All-Time Slugging Averages

Nine-Year Mark Is Rugged .580

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals failed to finish in the first division for the first time in 12 years last season but through no fault of Stanley Musial.

The great Redbird outfielder, generally rated the National Leagues No. 1 performer, not only paced all players in slugging statistics last season, but set a new league record with his performance.

The four-time batting champion pulverized opposing pitchers for a .596 slugging mark to boost his nine-year major league figure to a mighty .580. This betters the previous lifetime record of .577 held jointly by Rogers Hornsby and Johnny Mize.

Musial pounded out 311 total bases in 146 games, including 41 doubles, seven triples and 28 home runs. He scored 105 runs and batted in 109. Stan also drew 87 bases on balls and struck out only 36 times.

Stanky Excels

The official statistical figures, released yesterday, also showed why Eddie Stanky of the New York Giants ranked second in the most valuable player poll last month.

The fiery little second baseman reached base more often than any other National Leaguer last season. In addition to his 158 hits, Stanky coaxed 144 walks, was hit by a pitched ball 12 times and was safe on errors four times. That put him on base 318 times in 152 games. Stanky wound up with a batting average of .300. It is the first time he reached that figure in the majors, playing in 100 or more games. Stanky's walks and hit by pitched balls were high marks.

Other loop leaders in slugging statistics included:

Most strikeouts—Roy Samlley, Chicago Cubs, 114.

Most times grounded into double plays—Del Ennis, Philadelphia, 25.

One team and two league records were set. The Cubs, by striking out 767 times, bettered their old mark of 707, set in 1937. Cincinnati fanned the fewest times, 497.

A total of 5,007 strikeouts was racked up by the league, supplanting the old mark of 4,829 in 1916. The 4,537 bases on balls also bettered the old figure of 4,476 made in 1947.

Ohio Weather Pleases Rams

Cleveland, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams sampled Ohio weather today and declared it was "fine" for their game Sunday against the Cleveland Browns for the National Football League crown.

As they reached downtown Cleveland after an early morning trip from the airport the temperature was 30 degrees and that was warmer than it had been all of yesterday, the Weather Bureau said.

Coach Joe Stydahar declared that if the mercury stayed where it was, everything would be "OK."

He added that his team had brought along basketball shoes for better traction just in case the turf at Municipal Stadium stays frozen until game time.

He said he did not think the Rams would suffer too much from inexperience even if the field remains solid.

The Browns have found that a "cement" field crimps their passing attack, making it harder for a chucker to get his feet set and for receivers to dodge defensive backs.

Reserves Shine but New Paltz Loses to Waterbury Five 59-49

Ebelheiser, Yris Missing From Varsity

New Paltz State Teachers dropped a 59-49 decision to Waterbury Teachers, last night on the New Paltz hardwoods, but discovered that it has a reserve squad that may see plenty of action before the current campaign winds up.

With Manny Yris, sharpshooting forward, and Frank "Specs" Ebelheiser missing from the varsity five, Coach Loren Campbell's quintet got off to a poor start and trailed 22-6 at the quarter mark.

Late in the second quarter, Campbell began to substitute freely and the reserves lopped five points off the Waterbury lead and by the end of the third quarter had pulled to within a point of the visitors, 44-43.

That was as far as they got, however, because Waterbury launched a counter rally that quickly regained command of the game and they were ten points to the good at the end of the hard fought battle.

Gardner, a reserve player, was New Paltz's best scorer with 16 points, while Frank Manzi and Wulff shared 15.

Oliver led Waterbury with 13 points, with Gilland and Stokes sinking a dozen each.

"Specs" Ebelheiser, the lone Kingston representative on the New Paltz squad, was in Albany taking his Army physical.

Boxer's Death Follows Knockout in New York

Sonny Boy West Latest Boxing Victim

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Little two-year-old Sharon West won't get the toy piano her daddy intended to buy her for Christmas.

Her daddy, Al (Sonny Boy) West, died last night in St. Clare's Hospital, some 22 hours after he had been knocked out by Percy Bassett of Philadelphia, in a boxing bout at St. Nicholas Arena.

The 21-year-old West, a Negro lightweight from Washington, D. C., underwent two delicate brain operations and received three blood transfusions, but failed to regain consciousness and died at 7:59 p. m. (EST). He had been kept alive for several hours by artificial respiration.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, State Athletic Commission physician, said West died of an intracerebral hemorrhage and a cerebral concussion. When he was knocked out West fell flat on his back and his head hit the canvas with a thud.

He did not respond to Nardiello's treatment and was carried from the ring on a stretcher and rushed to the hospital. He rallied after the first operation, but suffered a relapse and a second operation was ordered in the afternoon. Thereafter he was reported "sinking fast" and was not moved from the operating room.

Only a few hours before he entered the ring trainer Johnny Sullivan said West had talked of the Christmas gifts he had in mind to buy his family with his purse money, estimated at $1,000. He had his heart set on the toy piano for little Sharon who was sent to bed in the West Washington home last night without being told of her daddy's death.

Boxing authorities characterized the death as a "tragic accident."

"It was one of those things that can happen in any vigorous sport," declared Col. Eddie Eagan, chairman of the State Athletic Commission.

"I conducted a preliminary investigation during the day before I knew of the death, and I found that no regulation had not been complied with. The doctors who examined West all reported him in A-1 excellent shape. The inspectors said they had examined the ring before the bout and found the padding properly adjusted. They said they examined the gloves, which were new, and everything was in order."

Holiday Sweeps Set At Two Local Alleys

Bowlodrome, Ruzzo's Offer Good Prizes

Holiday bowling sweepstakes offering cash prizes totalling more than $350 were announced today by the Ferraro Bowlodrome and Ruzzo Bowlatorium.

Johnny Ferraro's second annual doubles sweepstake offers a guaranteed first prize of $200, with the remainder of the prize list based on a percentage of entries. Unlimited re-entries are permitted. Three games are rolled on one pair of alleys.

The Ferraro sweeper is based on 75 per cent handicap off a 400 scratch. It runs from Saturday, Dec. 23 to January 1, inclusive.

The Bowlatorium plans an individual sweeper for December 24 and Dec. 25, with a guaranteed first prize of $75. The handicap is 70 per cent off 200, with three games rolled across six alleys.

The Bowlatorium mixed doubles sweepstakes, set for Dec. 31 and January 1, offers a guarantee first prize of $75 and allows 80 per cent handicap off a 400 scratch, with three games across six alleys. Unlimited re-entries are permitted.

Ike Defends Title

Los Angeles, Dec. 22 (AP)—World lightweight champion Ike Williams will defend his title here next March against Art Aragon of Los Angeles if negotiations are concluded as expected. Matchmaker Babe McCoy of the Olympic Auditorium said he had received a wire from Frank Palermo, Williams' manager, agreeing to the proposed 15-round battle. McCoy said it would be held outdoors, probably March 20.

Gavilan Rated 5-14 Over Joe Miceli

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Back in top shape again, Cuba's slick Kid Gavilan rated a 5 to 14 choice today to halt the surge of young Joe Miceli tonight.

The two welters clash in the feature ten rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight, a bout that takes on a significance because of the possible abdication of welterweight champion Ray Robinson.

Would Admit 50 Millions

Minneapolis, Dec. 22 (AP)—Syracuse University's chancellor proposes that 50,000,000 Asiatic and European immigrants be admitted to the U. S. in the next 10 years to help solve manpower problems. William P. Tolley pointed out that there were 150,000,000 Americans today, as compared with more than 200,000,000 Russians and more than 400,000,000 Chinese. Tolley addressed a graduating class at the University of Minnesota.

PRACTICE WING SHOTS WITH CLAY PIGEONS

NOT ONE GUNNER IN A HUNDRED CAN START OUT ON "OPENING DAY" FEELING SURE OF HIS SWING, TARGET LEADING, AND POISE, UNLESS HE HAS DONE SOME SHOOTING SINCE THE LAST SEASON. TEAM UP WITH A PAL TO SHARE SHOTS AND THROWS, USING A HAND TRAP AND CLAY PIGEONS FOR PRACTICE. IT WILL PAY OFF ON OPENING DAY!

Holiday Sweeps Set At Two Local Alleys

Bowlodrome, Ruzzo's Offer Good Prizes

Holiday bowling sweepstakes offering cash prizes totalling more than $350 were announced today by the Ferraro Bowlodrome and Ruzzo Bowlatorium.

Johnny Ferraro's second annual doubles sweepstake offers a guaranteed first prize of $200, with the remainder of the prize list based on a percentage of entries. Unlimited re-entries are permitted. Three games are rolled on one pair of alleys.

The Ferraro sweeper is based on 75 per cent handicap off a 400 scratch. It runs from Saturday, Dec. 23 to January 1, inclusive.

The Bowlatorium plans an individual sweeper for December 24 and Dec. 25, with a guaranteed first prize of $75. The handicap is 70 per cent off 200, with three games rolled across six alleys.

The Bowlatorium mixed doubles sweepstakes, set for Dec. 31 and January 1, offers a guarantee first prize of $75 and allows 80 per cent handicap off a 400 scratch, with three games across six alleys. Unlimited re-entries are permitted.

Ike Defends Title

Los Angeles, Dec. 22 (AP)—World lightweight champion Ike Williams will defend his title here next March against Art Aragon of Los Angeles if negotiations are concluded as expected. Matchmaker Babe McCoy of the Olympic Auditorium said he had received a wire from Frank Palermo, Williams' manager, agreeing to the proposed 15-round battle. McCoy said it would be held outdoors, probably March 20.

Gavilan Rated 5-14 Over Joe Miceli

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Back in top shape again, Cuba's slick Kid Gavilan rated a 5 to 14 choice today to halt the surge of young Joe Miceli tonight.

The two welters clash in the feature ten rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight, a bout that takes on a significance because of the possible abdication of welterweight champion Ray Robinson.

Would Admit 50 Millions

Minneapolis, Dec. 22 (AP)—Syracuse University's chancellor proposes that 50,000,000 Asiatic and European immigrants be admitted to the U. S. in the next 10 years to help solve manpower problems. William P. Tolley pointed out that there were 150,000,000 Americans today, as compared with more than 200,000,000 Russians and more than 400,000,000 Chinese. Tolley addressed a graduating class at the University of Minnesota.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Village Decorations Create Yule Spirit

Woodstock, Dec. 22—Visitors to Woodstock will find a special atmosphere pervading the village this holiday season, combining both the religious pageantry of Christmas and the things dear to the hearts of children. From the large greeting of welcome, provided by the Woodstock Riding Club, at the entrance to the town, to the various displays around the village green a Christmas carnival has been created.

Thursday afternoon the creche, designed and executed by John Pike and Howard Mandel, was placed on the green before the Woodstock War Memorial. Symbolic figures of Joseph, Mary and the infant Jesus, and the three Wise Men are illuminated against a starlit background.

Early in the week pedestrians and motorists alike were startled by the booming greetings of a life-sized Santa Claus stationed before one of the shops. Since his appearance clusters of children have been engaged in spirited conversation with this particularly genial St. Nick.

Quite suddenly one morning three story-book elves were discovered frolicking up the sign post of another shop, waving strings of hot dogs at the passers-by, Dave Huffine is reasonsible for the three lively sprites. More sedate but equally as charming are the large lighted Christmas tree, and the strings of lights and looped greens adorning both the Woodstock Art Gallery and the Guild of Craftsmen.

All preparations would seem now to be complete for the mysterious arrival of Santa Claus about 5:45 p. m. on Christmas Eve. Carol singing and the Christmas Eve service will begin at 5 p. m. on Dec. 24.

Fletcher Martins Are Parents of Son, Donovan

Woodstock, Dec. 22 — A son, Donovan Martin, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Martin of Woodstock at the Kingston Hospital, early Thursday afternoon. The baby weighed 8 pounds 4 ounces. Mother and son are fine.

Fletcher Martin, the baby's father, is one of Woodstock's most outstanding painters. He is one of the 307 artists from the United States, Alaska and Hawaii who are represented in the current show, "American Painting Today—1950" now on view at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Dr. I. A. Stoloff Dies In Florida Winter Home

Woodstock, Dec. 22—Dr. I. Arthur Stoloff, 64, retired New York surgeon, who since his retirement has resided in Woodstock, died Monday at his winter home in St. Petersburg, Fla. For many years he was connected with hospitals in New York.

He was on the staffs of the Children's Hospital, Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital, Beth David Hospital, New York Medical College, Flower-Fifth avenue Hospital and the Hospital for Joint Diseases.

He was a former president of the New York Physicians Medical Society.

Funeral services were held on Thursday noon at the Riverside Funeral Home.

Dr. Stoloff is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ella Wolper Stoloff; two brothers, Drs. Emile G. and Charles I. Stoloff; a daughter, Mrs. Irving S. Michaelman, and a son, Herbert Stoloff.

Agapae Yule Party

Woodstock, Dec. 22—The regular meeting of Agapae Rebekah Lodge was held Wednesday night at the Bearsville Lodge Hall. Children of members attended and enjoyed a Christmas party. Santa Claus arrived and presented gifts of candy and oranges to all the children and refreshments were served. Plans are being made to entertain the lodges of the district and also Olive Rebekah Lodge of Olive Bridge at the next meeting, Jan. 3.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Dec. 22—Mr. and Mrs. Royal Jansen of Zena and their family are driving to California for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Montcena DeWitt and their children, Stewart and Carol Ann, are going south for two-weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George Laws will spend Christmas with Mr. Laws' son in Rockville Center.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rorty arrived in Woodstock from Flat Brookville on Thursday and will remain until after the memorial service next Wednesday for Mrs. Marion Bullard who was Mr. Rorty's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Fortess will spend the Christmas holidays at their Woodstock home.

Mr. and Mrs. Enrique Touceda of Washington, D. C., will spend Christmas week at the house of Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker. They are driving from Washington, D. C., on Saturday.

Mrs. Fredrica Milne is a patient in Kingston Hospital.

Miss Jane Neher has arrived home for the holidays from St. Mary's School at Peekskill.

Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker will leave on Friday for New York. She will return after New Years to close her house for the winter.

Mrs. William Shirey, daughter of Mrs. Orestes Cleveland has been visiting with Capt. and Mrs. Daniel Cullinane of West Point. Capt. Cullinane is a classmate of Mrs. Shirey's husband, Capt. William Shirey, who is in Korea.

Will Look to West

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Dec. 22 (AP)—An army spokesman intimated to the Yugoslav people for the first time last night that their government would look to the West for aid in case of war. If the Communist but anti-Moscow nation is attacked by Russia and her satellites, Maj. Gen. Djuro Loncarevic declared, "we shall not fight alone." He spoke in the presence of Premier Marshal Tito and high government leaders at a reception on the eve of Yugoslavia's Ninth Army Day. His address also suggested that the Balkan country may seek arms in the west.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

A SHOCKING THOUGHT

Unawareness of custom can cause needless worry: "My brother was divorced many years ago and has made his home with us ever since. He has a daughter living with his ex-wife, who is married again. However, the daughter has been very fond of her father and comes to our house at least once a week, and at present her fiance is usually with her. Now comes her wedding invitation, sent in the mother's name alone, just as though her father didn't exist. We are very much hurt about it, because we know very well how much the omission of his name hurts her father. Wasn't this unnecessary on her part?"

I'm sorry—but you are quite wrong! No matter what the feelings of the parents might be, it would be in very worst taste to have included his name on the invitations. In other words, the absence of his name is a requirement of propriety and is not in any way belittling to her father.

'Serve-Yourself-First' Rudeness

Dear Mrs. Post: Please clear up a point which I think is all wrong. One of our friends, to whose house we are often invited for dinner, always serves his wife first, the the other ladies present. Isn't this discourteous?

Answer: Extremely so! Serving the hostess before any woman guest is known to the fastidious as "the great American rudeness."

Table Manners Question

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible at dinner to eat the skin of a baked potato and also the parsley which is used as a garnish? My friend says "yes" and I say "no." What do you say?

Answer: I say "Yes"—if this is the food you enjoy!

Married Woman Cannot Be Miss

Dear Mrs. Post: When a woman becomes divorced and resumes her maiden name through a court order, does she call herself Miss or Mrs.?

Answer: Miss is unthinkable in private life. It is, however, permissible in business or professional life.

Are you planning a small wedding? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, leaflet E-8, "Today's Typical Weddings," includes details for a wedding at moderate expense. ## Separation Announced

Hollywood, Dec. 22 (AP)—Judy Garland announces she and her husband, Director Vincente Minelli have separated. The singing star said yesterday that "the amicable arrangement" was made two weeks ago. She gave no plans for divorce yet. Miss Garland, 28, and Minelli, 37, have been married since 1945, and have one child, Liza May, four years old. Previously Judy was married to orchestra leader David Rose.

273 More Casualties

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 273 more American casualties in the Korean fighting. In casualty list No. 182, the department named eight dead, 215 wounded, 41 injured in accidents, and nine missing in action.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Village Decorations Create Yule Spirit

Woodstock, Dec. 22—Visitors to Woodstock will find a special atmosphere pervading the village this holiday season, combining both the religious pageantry of Christmas and the things dear to the hearts of children. From the large greeting of welcome, provided by the Woodstock Riding Club, at the entrance to the town, to the various displays around the village green a Christmas carnival has been created.

Thursday afternoon the creche, designed and executed by John Pike and Howard Mandel, was placed on the green before the Woodstock War Memorial. Symbolic figures of Joseph, Mary and the infant Jesus, and the three Wise Men are illuminated against a starlit background.

Early in the week pedestrians and motorists alike were startled by the booming greetings of a life-sized Santa Claus stationed before one of the shops. Since his appearance clusters of children have been engaged in spirited conversation with this particularly genial St. Nick.

Quite suddenly one morning three story-book elves were discovered frolicking up the sign post of another shop, waving strings of hot dogs at the passers-by. Dave Huffine is reasponsible for the three lively sprites. More sedate but equally as charming are the large lighted Christmas tree, and the strings of lights and looped greens adorning both the Woodstock Art Gallery and the Guild of Craftsmen.

All preparations would seem now to be complete for the mysterious arrival of Santa Claus about 5:45 p. m. on Christmas Eve. Carol singing and the Christmas Eve service will begin at 5 p. m. on Dec. 24.

Fletcher Martins Are Parents of Son, Donovan

Woodstock, Dec. 22 — A son, Donovan Martin, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Martin of Woodstock at the Kingston Hospital, early Thursday afternoon. The baby weighed 8 pounds 4 ounces. Mother and son are fine.

Fletcher Martin, the baby's father, is one of Woodstock's most outstanding painters. He is one of the 307 artists from the United States, Alaska and Hawaii who are represented in the current show, "American Painting Today—1950" now on view at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Church Services

Woodstock, Dec. 22—Dutch Reformed Church, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, minister—Christmas service and worship, Sunday, Dec. 24, 11 a. m. Christmas service Monday, 10 a. m., a half-hour devotional service.

Methodist Church Parish, the Rev. Charles Wharton, Minister—Union service of Woodstock, Willow, Wittenberg and Shady at the Woodstock Church, Sunday, Dec. 24, at 11:30 a. m.

St. Joan of Arc Roman Catholic Church, the Rev. James Riordan—Christmas Eve services: Masses: 11 a. m. and 12 midnight; Christmas Day Mass 11 a. m. Carols will be sung at 11:30 p. m. on Christmas Eve just prior to midnight Mass. Confessions Saturday and Sunday, 4 to 5:30 p. m. During the midnight Mass the choir, under the direction of Mrs. A. A. Champanier and Mrs. Walter McTeigue, will sing a short Mass in G by Birtchnell. The Adeste Fideles will be sung by Joseph Riella.

Woodstock Lutheran Church, the Rev. Olney E. Cook, pastor—Midnight service Sunday, Dec. 24, 11 p. m. Also a children's program with a pageant, "The Babe of Bethlehem," at morning service, 11 a. m. The Rev. Milton Davis of Phoenicia, will speak at the midnight service.

The Church of Christ Scientist—Sunday, Dec. 24, 11 a. m. service.

Old Catholic Church of Woodstock, Archbishop W. H. Francis, celebrant — Midnight service, Christmas Eve, Sunday, Dec. 24, at 11 p. m. at the Woodstock Methodist Church. The service will be preceded by community carol singing. Violin selections by Edith Lorand-Hood, internationally famous violinist.

Dr. I. A. Stoloff Dies In Florida Winter Home

Woodstock, Dec. 22—Dr. I. Arthur Stoloff, 64, retired New York surgeon, who since his retirement has resided in Woodstock, died Monday at his winter home in St. Petersburg, Fla. For many years he was connected with hospitals in New York.

He was on the staffs of the Children's Hospital, Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital, Beth David Hospital, New York Medical College, Flower-Fifth avenue Hospital and the Hospital for Joint Diseases.

He was a former president of the New York Physicians Medical Society.

Funeral services were held on Thursday noon at the Riverside Funeral Home.

Dr. Stoloff is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ella Wolper Stoloff; two brothers, Drs. Emile G. and Charles I. Stoloff; a daughter, Mrs. Irving S. Michaelman, and a son, Herbert Stoloff.

Agapae Yule Party

Woodstock, Dec. 22—The regular meeting of Agapae Rebekah Lodge was held Wednesday night at the Bearsville Lodge Hall. Children of members attended and enjoyed a Christmas party. Santa Claus arrived and presented gifts of candy and oranges to all the children and refreshments were served. Plans are being made to entertain the lodges of the district and also Olive Rebekah Lodge of Olive Bridge at the next meeting, Jan. 3.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Dec. 22—Mr. and Mrs. Royal Jansen of Zena and their family are driving to California for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Montcena DeWitt and their children, Stewart and Carol Ann, are going south for two-weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George Laws will spend Christmas with Mr. Laws' son in Rockville Center.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rorty arrived in Woodstock from Flat Brookville on Thursday and will remain until after the memorial service next Wednesday for Mrs. Marion Bullard who was Mr. Rorty's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Fortess will spend the Christmas holidays at their Woodstock home.

Mr. and Mrs. Enrique Touceda of Washington, D. C., will spend Christmas week at the house of Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker. They are driving from Washington, D. C., on Saturday.

Mrs. Fredrica Milne is a patient in Kingston Hospital.

Miss Jane Neher has arrived home for the holidays from St. Mary's School at Peekskill.

Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker will leave on Friday for New York. She will return after New Years to close her house for the winter.

Mrs. William Shirey, daughter of Mrs. Orestes Cleveland has been visiting with Capt. and Mrs. Daniel Cullinane of West Point. Capt. Cullinane is a classmate of Mrs. Shirey's husband, Capt. William Shirey, who is in Korea.

Will Look to West

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Dec. 22 (AP)—An army spokesman intimated to the Yugoslav people for the first time last night that their government would look to the West for aid in case of war. If the Communist but anti-Moscow nation is attacked by Russia and her satellites, Maj. Gen. Djuro Loncarevic declared, "we shall not fight alone." He spoke in the presence of Premier Marshal Tito and high government leaders at a reception on the eve of Yugoslavia's Ninth Army Day. His address also suggested that the Balkan country may seek arms in the west.

LEGAL NOTICES

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

A SHOCKING THOUGHT

Unawareness of custom can cause needless worry: "My brother was divorced many years ago and has made his home with us ever since. He has a daughter living with his ex-wife, who is married again. However, the daughter has been very fond of her father and comes to our house at least once a week, and at present her fiance is usually with her. Now comes her wedding invitation, sent in the mother's name alone, just as though her father didn't exist. We are very much hurt about it, because we know very well how much the omission of his name hurts her father. Wasn't this unnecessary on her part?"

I'm sorry—but you are quite wrong! No matter what the feelings of the parents might be, it would be in very worst taste to have included his name on the invitations. In other words, the absence of his name is a requirement of propriety and is not in any way belittling to her father.

'Serve-Yourself-First' Rudeness

Dear Mrs. Post: Please clear up a point which I think is all wrong. One of our friends, to whose house we are often invited for dinner, always serves his wife first, the the other ladies present. Isn't this discourteous?

Answer: Extremely so! Serving the hostess before any woman guest is known to the fastidious as "the great American rudeness."

Table Manners Question

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible at dinner to eat the skin of a baked potato and also the parsley which is used as a garnish? My friend says "yes" and I say "no." What do you say?

Answer: I say "Yes"—if this is the food you enjoy!

Married Woman Cannot Be Miss

Dear Mrs. Post: When a woman becomes divorced and resumes her maiden name through a court order, does she call herself Miss or Mrs.?

Answer: Miss is unthinkable in private life. It is, however, permissible in business or professional life.

Are you planning a small wedding? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, leaflet E-8, "Today's Typical Weddings," includes details for a wedding at moderate expense. ## Separation Announced

Hollywood, Dec. 22 (AP)—Judy Garland announces she and her husband, Director Vincente Minelli have separated. The singing star said yesterday that "the amicable arrangement" was made two weeks ago. She gave no plans for divorce yet. Miss Garland, 28, and Minelli, 37, have been married since 1945, and have one child, Liza May, four years old. Previously Judy was married to orchestra leader David Rose.

273 More Casualties

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Defense Department today identified 273 more American casualties in the Korean fighting. In casualty list No. 182, the department named eight dead, 215 wounded, 41 injured in accidents, and nine missing in action.

Furloughed Soldier Tells of Korea

CPL. RALPH B. WILLIAMS

Soldiers in Korea Wonder Whether They Are Forgotten

United States fighting men in Korea at times wondered whether the persons at home really understood the seriousness of the situation, a returned veteran told The Freeman in an interview Thursday afternoon.

President Truman's proclamation of a national emergency probably allayed their fears of being "forgotten men" and bolstered their morale, Cpl. Ralph B. Williams of 101 Bruyn avenue added.

Williams, who arrived back in this country on an emergency furlough before the President's proclamation was issued, said at that time businessmen and others told him they were "behind the soldiers 100 per cent," but, Williams said, "sometimes we wondered."

Far from being a "police action," the Korean affair even at its beginning was considered by many of the fighting men as the beginning of a major war. Asked whether he believed World War 3 is inevitable, Cpl. Williams replied, "Over there we figured that was it."

"The only ones who really realize (how serious the situation is) are those who have boys over there," the veteran said.

Was at Inchon

In Japan when the fighting started, Williams took part in the Inchon landing with the 32nd Infantry Regiment, Seventh Division. He later transferred to a unit that fought its way almost to the Manchurian border before the large-scale Red counter-offensive began. He left on an emergency furlough when word was received of his father's death on November 22 in this city. His father, the late Berton L. Williams, lived at 101 Bruyn avenue.

Cpl. Williams left Korea just two days before the beginning of the Red counter-offensive.

He is to report back to duty at a Pacific coast station right after Christmas, and expects to be shipped back to the combat area.

Williams declined to give details of the fighting that he saw in order not to break security regulations. However, he had high praise for the medical corps, which he said has been doing "a wonderful job." He also praised the air force which gave effective support despite the mountainous terrain which made strafing hazardous for pilots.

Guerrillas Vicious

The veteran of more than three year's army service confirmed stories of the difficulties caused by Red Guerrillas disguised as dispossed civilians. He told of one instance in which a Red officer was captured as he was changing from his uniform to civilian clothes.

Korea itself is essentially a primitive land, he reported, with the only industrial developments and other improvements those that can be attributed directly to Japanese influence.

Most of the native Korean population is extremely poor and lives under filthy conditions, he said.

South Korea is manily a farming country, raising rice, barley, and some vegetables. Oxen are the usual work animals, and in his service in the country he said he hadn't seen more than four or five milk cows. Northern Korea, because of Japanese influence, is a more industrial territory than its southern neighbor.

Mechanic's Lien Case Is Settled

Testimony was completed Thursday and a verdict returned by the jury in Supreme Court in an action to foreclose a mechanic lien, brought by Merton E. Jenkins against Manuel J. Sacco, involving work on a bungalow in Plattekill.

Four questions were submitted to the jury. The jury in response to a question whether the plaintiff supplied certain materials and labor in the amount of $4,975.51, replied "yes."

To the question whether the work was done in a workmanlike manner, the jury answered "no."

To the question whether the work was not done in a workmanlike manner, was the defendant damaged, and in what amount, the jury replied $650.

Peter H. Harp appeared for the plaintiff and the defendant was represented by Michael Nardone. Motions were reserved until Thursday, Dec. 28, at 11 a. m., to which time court was recessed.

On Thursday, next, Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth, presiding justice, will receive the report of the grand jury. Jurors were excused for the term with the thanks of the court and wishes for a happy holiday season.

Thruway . . .

Tallamy said:

"The thruway * * * has been planned to serve as many communities as possible without going into congested areas where property damage and construction costs become prohibitive. This criterion indicates that the Hudson river crossing should be north of the city of Yonkers, which is very intensively developed.

"A controlling feature of the thruway alignment (at South Nyack) * * * is the necessity for making a connection with Route N. Y. 17, which serves the Catskill resort areas and the southern tier counties of New York state.

"The Ramapo Mountains preclude the possibility of crossing through the Bear Mountain-Harriman Park, and require that the route use the pass at Suffern.

"In view of this fixed point, any bridge crossing more than a mile or two north of Nyack would require a substantial detour in the route in order to swing back to Suffern.

"These two considerations delineate the area of selection as extending from the north city line of Yonkers to a point a short distance north of Nyack. Within that area, the factors affecting the choice of an exact site are principally physical considerations, cost and relation to the highway system and to other crossings.

"The only major east-west highways in the area are N. Y. 59, extending west from Nyack, and N. Y. 119, extending east from Tarrytown. The proposed bridge site forms a direct connection between these two important routes, which will serve the bridge as local traffic feeders and connections with other routes in Westchester and Rockland counties.

"Any location south of the site proposed would require additional expenditures and land taking to provide for the construction of several miles of new highway connecting the bridge with the existing and proposed roads across Westchester county.

"The proposed bridge location is approximately halfway between the George Washington Bridge and the Bear Mountain Bridge. At the present time, the Hudson river is unbridged for a distance of 33 miles, interposing a costly barrier between two important parts of the state."

A thruway spokesman has said that Tallamy will make within a few days a second statement designed to answer criticisms of the bridge site that have come from residents in Tarrytown, on the eastern side of the river.

CPL. RALPH B. WILLIAMS

Soldiers in Korea Wonder Whether They Are Forgotten

United States fighting men in Korea at times wondered whether the persons at home really understood the seriousness of the situation, a returned veteran told The Freeman in an interview Thursday afternoon.

President Truman's proclamation of a national emergency probably allayed their fears of being "forgotten men" and bolstered their morale, Cpl. Ralph B. Williams of 101 Bruyn avenue added.
